

KING TUT NO NEARER APE THAN MAN TODAY IS CLAIM OF BRYAN

WASHINGTON, Feb. 23.—King Tut-ank-Amen doesn't seem to have been any nearer the ape than Percy Stickney Grant!

That from William Jennings Bryan, who tells the intellectual world it is dead wrong in the theory that man sprang from the worm and monkey.

Colonel Bryan was jubilant over the discoveries in the Egyptian tomb of Tut-ank-Amen. It fixes as a certainty that man was through "evolving" from the monkey stage nearly 5000 years ago, Colonel Bryan said.

Darwin Foe Jubilant.

That proven, Colonel Bryan feels he has a powerful additional argument to support his anti-Darwinian theory.

"It is difficult to draw conclusions until you get all the facts," Colonel Bryan commented on the work of the archaeologists. "So far, however, the discoveries seem to indicate a highly advanced state of civilization, even at that remote period. There was evidently a belief in immortality—a belief in God."

Here the "great commoner" exhibited the keenest mirth. He took this shot at the evolutionists: "If man came from the ape he must have quit coming before the Egyptian king took the throne. Man seems to have arrived on our earth a good while ago, judging from the fact his civilization of 3000 years before Christ, was in quite a high state of progress."

Catarrh Of the Stomach Is Dangerous

"Thousands, Have It and Don't Know It," Says Physician. Frequently Mistaken for Indigestion—How to Recognize and Treat.

"Thousands of people suffer more or less constantly from furred, coated tongue, bad breath, burning stomach, frequent vomiting, rumbling in stomach, bitter eructations, gas, wind and stomach acidity and call it indigestion when in reality their trouble is due to gastric catarrh of the stomach," writes a New York physician.

Catarrh of the stomach is dangerous because the mucous membrane lining of the stomach is thickened and a coating of phlegm covers the surface so that the digestive fluids cannot mix with the food and digest them. This condition soon breeds deadly disease in the fermented, unassimilated food. The blood is polluted and carries the infection throughout the body. Gastric ulcers are apt to form and frequently an ulcer is the first sign of a deadly cancer.

In catarrh of the stomach a good and safe treatment is to take before meals a teaspoonful of pure Bismarck Magnesia in half a glass of hot water as hot as you can comfortably drink it. The hot water washes the mucous from the stomach walls and draws the blood to the stomach while the Bismarck Magnesia is an excellent solvent for mucus and increases the efficiency of the hot water treatment. Moreover the Bismarck Magnesia will serve as a powerful but harmless antacid which will neutralize any excess hydrochloric acid that may be in your stomach and sweeten its food contents. Easy natural digestion without distress of any kind should soon follow. Bismarck Magnesia is not a laxative, is harmless, pleasant and easy to take and can be obtained from any local druggist. Don't confuse Bismarck Magnesia with other forms of magnesia, milks, citrates, etc., but get it in the pure Bismarck form (powder or tablets), especially prepared for this purpose.—adv.

COMMENT

BY Chester H. Rowell

in the churches in the evening. During the campaign, he talked economics for two hours in the town hall, and then for two hours more to the overflow meeting outside. If the roads were bad, and he arrived at the hall of a "9 o'clock town" and at 10 o'clock, he found them still waiting, and insisting that he talk until midnight. Like La Follette, he found long-winded speeches popular and for the same reason. The people wanted to hear issues discussed—the causes and effects of things—carefully and in detail, with facts and figures. They wanted to be bored. They were hungry for the "high brow stuff." And they called the ordinary political speech-making "bunk."

Even some conservatives did the same thing, and if they were long-winded and boring and gave facts and figures enough, they got eager audiences, too, and won. The people were willing to be convinced. But they wanted to be convinced by serious argument. In resentment, they voted against whoever tried to entertain them with a snappy speech.

Now the radicals have won part of all the election in Wisconsin, Minnesota, North Dakota, and Iowa, and the conservatives are really scared. In some states, they have united the Republican and Democratic parties, and in others are planning to do so. They are planning to have as good precinct organizations as the Non-Partisan League. They are back-firing with really progressive measures. They are willing to repeal the pre-primary convention law, and may even pass a presidential primary law. Out of the vague and sometimes impossible dreams of the radicals, a real effort to solve real problems by practical methods is being stimulated. The voice of the calamity howler has been heard—and heeded.

GANNA IS NICE BUT VOICE IS BAD, VERDICT

DETROIT, Mich., Feb. 23.—If one had been forced to choose, 'twere better to have been deaf than blind, at Mme. Ganna Walska's concert here.

This was the unanimous verdict in the Detroit Free Press: "Desire for an operatic career presupposes as its foundation a natural talent of an unusual order. Mme. Walska's voice is not even of a pleasing quality or a type which would entitle her to an operatic audition. She is a singer unable to keep her pitch; she displays incorrect breath control and a most faulty tone position."

The recent severe cold wave here has been replaced by the rigidity of Ganna's reception by

ARRAIGN EIGHT IN BALL GAME CLASH CASES

Arraigned today before Justice J. B. Cox, eight men, arrested on charges of interfering with an officer, in connection with the asserted disturbance at a Huntington Beach baseball game last Sunday, in which one man was shot, and two officers were asserted to have been manhandled, were held under $1,000 bond for preliminary examination March 29 and 30.

Up to noon all save three of the men had given bond, and were released pending their hearings.

Examinations of P. J. Murphy, Oliver Logue, Frank Collinger and Jack Moran were set for March 29 at various hours throughout the day.

Frank Ware, George Cleveland, R. L. Reeves and Sam Bledsoe will undergo hearing the following day.

The arrests resulted from an asserted riot. According to witnesses and Huntington Beach officials, Police Officer Perry Ballard attempted to arrest a man, when several bystanders set upon him. Officer Roy Ballard, his brother, rushing to his assistance, was also overpowered. When there seemed danger, it was said, Ballard drew a gun and fired one shot, which slightly wounded Frank Moore.

Asked to comment on the case, the three men who remained at the jail up to noon said they had no statement to make.

THEFT CHARGE FOR 2 JAILED AT WAREHOUSE

Frank Zung and Mike Armenta, arrested at a warehouse near Santa Fe tracks last night by city police, were held for preliminary hearing, March 16, on burglary charges by Justice J. B. Cox, before whom they were arraigned today.

W. A. Collins was the complaining witness. They were held in lieu of $1,000 bail each.

THE MUSIC EDITORS. It Was Ganna's first appearance before a big-town audience since her return from Europe with her famous husband, but many a critic warned to the occasion.

She's Beautiful, Anyway

Admitting that as a singer Ganna is one of the most beautiful women on the concert stage, the critics attributed the fact that an audience of 2000 gave her generous applause to nothing more than Detroit's natural-born politeness and appreciation of the fact that Mme. McCormick was trying as hard as she knew how.

Charlotte M. Tansney declared in the Detroit Free Press: "Desire for an operatic career presupposes as its foundation a natural talent of an unusual order. Mme. Walska's voice is not even of a pleasing quality or a type which would entitle her to an operatic audition. She is a singer unable to keep her pitch; she displays incorrect breath control and a most faulty tone position."

Minor Changes Planned

"As a result of our trip and of the suggestion of heads of some of the institutions visited, we will make minor alterations and changes in the budget recommendations and we are certain that the people will continue to approve the governor's insistence upon rigid economy in the conduct of the state's affairs," Mr. Radcliff declared.

In nearly every case the fears of institution heads that budget cuts would seriously cripple the work done have been shown to be without foundation, according to Mr. Radcliff.

At Fresno, it was pointed out by the speaker, the people themselves have been divided as to the continuance of the state teachers' college in its present location, and the governor has wisely withheld large appropriations for enlargement and improvement purposes until the matter is settled.

Many Favor Transfer

Many citizens desire to have the present teachers' college site transferred to the city for the latter's school uses, according to the board of control members. A group of citizens are willing to donate a tract of land to the state for a new college, if the present site can be acquired by the city, he said.

Senator M. B. Harris of Fresno, one of those who has criticized the governor's budget, is author of a skeleton bill, which would permit of the sale of the present state property, it was pointed out.

"Everything we talked to is convinced that the budget system of accounting for government expenditures is right and the taxpayers are willing that the present budget be given a fair trial," Mr. Radcliff said.

Mr. Radcliff and Mr. Kline inspected San Quentin prison yesterday.

BILL WOULD ABOLISH CAPITAL PUNISHMENT

SAN FRANCISCO, Feb. 23.—Abolishment of capital punishment in California is the hope of Assemblyman Roy Feltom of San Francisco, author of bill to amend Section 190 of the Penal Code, relating to the punishment of persons found guilty of murder. Feltom's bill contains just seventy words, but it is safe to say that thousands of words will be written and spoken about it before it is enacted into law or is defeated by a vote of the legislators during the last half of the 1923 session.

The bill amends Section 190, so that it will read: "Every person guilty of murder in the first degree shall suffer confinement in the State prison for life; provided, however, that every person guilty of murder while suffering such confinement shall suffer death; every person guilty of murder in the second degree is punishable by imprisonment in the State prison not less than ten years."

In other words, the only occasion that murder will be punishable by a death penalty will be when a person serving a life sentence for murder commits murder within a prison.

Feltom said he has received hundreds of letters from organizations and individuals congratulating him and urging him to have his bill enacted into law. The organizations addressing him are scattered throughout the State.

"Not only do I believe the bill is humane in character, but it will bring justice to all alike. At present, with rare exceptions, a rich man commits murder, and gets away with it or else gets life. He has funds to pay for the best attorneys and consequently seldom pays for taking a life with his life. On the other hand, a poor, ignorant man commits murder and he hangs for it. My bill, enacted, will put California alongside of other progressive states. From the communications I have received, I have every reason to believe that the people want such a law and I expect my bill to be passed and signed by the Governor during the last half of the season," Feltom said.

BUDGET POPULAR IN STATE IS CLAIMED

SAN FRANCISCO, Feb. 23.—Throughout Central and Southern California taxpayers are satisfied with the budget recommendations of Governor Friend W. Richardson and will insist that the legislature approve the governor's demand for economy, George Radcliff, member of the state board of control, declared yesterday.

With Assemblyman Chester M. Kline, San Jacinto, chairman of the ways and means committee of the assembly, Mr. Radcliff arrived here yesterday from an inspection tour of state institutions in Central and Southern California.

"The heads of most of the state institutions recognize the justice of the budget recommendations," Mr. Radcliff said.

Minor Changes Planned

"As a result of our trip and of the suggestion of heads of some of the institutions visited, we will make minor alterations and changes in the budget recommendations and we are certain that the people will continue to approve the governor's insistence upon rigid economy in the conduct of the state's affairs," Mr. Radcliff declared.

SENIORS FROWN ON CAP, GOWN PROPOSAL

Caps and gowns will not be worn by seniors of the Santa Ana high school at the June commencement, it was decided by vote of the class today.

Now the problem is: "What shall be worn?"

A meeting to decide this question will be held in the immediate future, it was announced.

Count of the ballot today disclosed 83 votes in favor of cap and gown at the commencement exercises, while 91 votes were counted against the scholarly attire.

The proposition to wear cap and gowns at the baccalaureate sermon on the Sunday preceding commencement was voted down by 116 to 52.

DEATH OF ARMED SHIP BILL IS DESCRIBED

WASHINGTON, Feb. 23.—"Congressional history holds no chapter more dramatic than the fatal death of the armed merchant ship bill at the hands of the 'wilful twelve' in the senate as the Sixty-fourth congress expired on March 4, 1917," declared Senator Gilbert M. Hitchcock of Nebraska.

Even the solemn scene in the senate as war was declared on Germany lacked the throbbing intensity of the day when it seemed peace or war trembled in the balance, pictured for the United Press by the Nebraskan, who led the fight for the last vain attempt to keep America out of war.

Destiny chose Senator Hitchcock to wage a gallant but losing battle for the two proposals nearest the heart of former President Wilson—the armed ship bill to enforce American neutrality and the League of Nations. He took charge of the former when the late Senator "Gumshoe" Bill Stone of Missouri, then chairman of the foreign relations committee, declined to support it.

Of the men who scuttled the armed ship bill, Senator Hitchcock had no criticism. Opinion on its wisdom was sharply divided. Unless the measure, which went through the House a few days before, passed the Senate by March 4, it was dead. To put it through, in the face of a stubborn filibuster, characterized by Senator Hitchcock as "the most reprehensible in history," he held the senate in session throughout the night of March 3.

Organized by LaFollette, "Fighting Bob" LaFollette, a past master at filibustering, organized the "wilful twelve" so that each spoke in turn during the night and early morning, frequently drawing the fire of administration senators to consume time and give them a breathing spell. Senator LaFollette was saving himself for the last.

"Argument exhausted, tempers began to grow thin as we did everything possible to induce the opponents of the bill to allow it to come to a vote," said Senator Hitchcock. "Finally, near dawn, a round robin was circulated. It was signed by seventy-five senators, showing the overwhelming majority for the passage of the bill."

"Even that failed to shake the opposition. The news going to the country only seemed to make the so-called 'wilful twelve' more determined. The debate was just a series of bitter personal clashes. "Near the close of the debate, when Senator Robinson of Arkansas, who was presiding, refused to recognize Senator LaFollette, the doctory Wisconsin solon advanced menacingly to the well of the Senate, shaking his fist at the belligerent Arkansan."

Senate Floor Choked

"By 10 o'clock the Senate floor was choked with senators, representatives and employees. The galleries that remained throughout the night were now overflowing and long lines waited in the corridors for places. Every minute increased the intensity of the situation. Every minute meant the bill was nearer death. The stroke of 12 was its death knell."

"Senator LaFollette was planning to get the floor. I was determined he should not speak, unless he let the bill come to a vote."

"When Senator Owen of Oklahoma finished speaking I leaped to my feet and gained recognition. Senator LaFollette was on his feet a moment too late."

"I had never made a two-hour speech in my life, but I started in. Every few minutes Senator LaFollette interrupted and asked me to yield the floor. Each time I demanded an agreement to vote, but he refused."

Time raced along. I could see the great gilded clock over the vice president's chair ticking off the fateful minutes. It fascinated me.

"Outside, in the president's room just off the Senate chamber, sat President Wilson signing eleven-hour bills and waiting to fix his signature to this last measure through which it was hoped to avert war."

"My last attempt to get a vote was at 11:55. Again Senator LaFollette objected. I talked on and then—bang—down came the gavel in the middle of a sentence."

"It was noon. The bill was dead."

"One month later, on April 2, 1917, we declared war on Germany."

HINDU JOURNALIST

PASADENA SPEAKER

PASADENA, Feb. 23. — Syed Hossain, Hindu journalist, was heard yesterday afternoon at the cloister, home of Mrs. Kate Crane Gartz, Altadena, speaking on the collapse of the Lausanne conference. Ostensibly, he said, the conference was called for the purpose of making a treaty of peace between the Moslems
and the allies of Great Britain.

The treaty of Sevres, he declared,
has never been ratified by either the Turks or a single one of the allies.

The Sultan of Turkey, he stated, was forced to abdicate because of his treason to his own country and his gift of tremendously valuable concessions to the British. This state of affairs resulted in the creation of the Angora government, at the head of which is Mustapha Kemal, whose leadership of the Turks, the speaker said, was unprecedented
in world history.

"The collapse of the Lausanne conference," Mr. Hossain emphasized to an attentive audience,
"may be summed up in one word of three letters—oil. The priceless oil fields of Mosul in the rock upon which the nations of Lausanne—or, the British, in particular—failed to get together with Turkey."

Believing that little of the actual facts have been presented to the reading public of the United States, Mr. Hossain gave considerable attention to the Mosul problem. The defeat of Turkey, an ally of Germany in the World War, he explained, resulted in the loss of the country—Thrace
—where the great oil fields are located. Then followed an effort on the part of the powers of Europe to carry into execution
the idealistic mandate theory
espoused and given to the world
by ex-President Wilson.

"Believe this, my friends," he exclaimed, "that, within five or ten years, this mandate system
that is being worked out will present a terribly grave problem to the world. It is, as now being conducted, a gigantic conspiracy of the strong, to pillage, loot and demoralize the weak. The time will soon come around when these mandatories will have to be dis-gorged. A state of affairs will then be revealed that will shock
the world."

He explained how M. Clemenceau graciously gave the British a mandate over the Mosul territory, while Mr. Lloyd George, equally as graciously, wished a million square miles upon France.

was then, he maintained, that Great Britain took possession of the oil fields. In order to maintain her position there, he declared, England was forced to disgrace the Greek army to keep the Turks busy and the Turkish mind away from the oil district.

"But, when Turkey drove Greece out of Thrace, the Turks maintained that she had superseded Great Britain's mandatory and had again come into possession."

GOOD MANNERS

The making of engagement
presents has disappeared as an obligation, congratulations being sufficient. However, if they please, a young woman's close friends may send gifts too,
such as bits of china, glassware or even silver. Markings on such presents usually

NEWS BRIEFS

The families of a number of carpenters of the city today were preparing to be present tonight at a banquet and open meeting of carpenters to be held at 7:30 o'clock
at Knights of Columbus hall, 301½ East Fourth street.

A serious break in The Register's press yesterday afternoon caused a delay of two hours in printing and delivering papers to subscribers. The Register regrets any inconvenience that may have been occasioned by the late deliveries.

All persons now in Southern California who ever lived in Colorado were today being invited to meet for a great annual picnic reunion, all day Saturday, March 3,
in Sycamore Grove park, Los Angeles. There will be a brief program beginning at 2 p. m. Coffee will be served free to all who buy silk souvenir badges.

Authority has been granted by the railroad commission to the Pacific Electric Railway company to carry out the provisions of a contract with the Southern Pacific Railroad company and Southern Pacific company for the construction, maintenance and operation of a bridge over the Santa Ana river at El Moro station, Orange county.

and for the joint use of approximately 3000 feet of the petitioner's Newport Beach line, it was learned here today.

Carl E. Hofer has applied to the railroad commission for permission to operate a motor truck service between Irvine and Laguna Beach,
it was learned here today.

Livestock men of Orange county
on the committee actively preparing for the coming county fair will meet tomorrow afternoon at the farm bureau office here, W. M.
Cory, Orange county farm advisor,
announced today.

When the executive committee of the walnut department of the Orange county farm bureau meets tomorrow afternoon at the farm bureau office here it is expected that
W. R. Hooper, Agricultural Extension service specialist, will give a short talk on walnut root diseases and conference with H. E. Wahlberg, Orange county farm advisor, with reference to various experimental plots in the county. He arrived here yesterday.

Agricultural legislation has been announced as the important topic
to be brought before the meeting of the directors of Regional No. 1
of the California Farm Bureau federation at the farm bureau office
here tomorrow at 2 p. m., according to Edwin F. Whedon, secretary-
manager of the Orange county farm bureau. Southern California counties' farm bureaus comprise Region No. 1 of the state federation.
R. B. Peters of San Bernardino county is president and will preside
at the meeting, Whedon said.

Even though you are married and make only $2400, and know that the income tax law allows you exemption up to $2500, it is necessary to file a return, said A. B. Pilch, deputy collector of internal revenue, at his office in the city hall
today. "Errors are made in this matter due to the fact that taxpayers overlook the provision in the law requiring filing of a return for all incomes of $2,000 or more, irrespective of other conditions," explained Pilch.

Dr. C. D. Ball, assemblyman, is programmed to address the Fullerton farm center tonight at 7:30 o'clock on legislative matters affecting the farmers. It was announced by Edwin F. Whedon, secretary-
manager of the Orange county farm bureau.

J. A. Cranston, city school superintendent; F. L. Andrews, secretary of the board of education, and H. G. Nelson, principal of the junior high school, gained many helpful ideas when they visited the Whittier schools yesterday,
they declared today, following their return. The educators made the trip to Whittier, they said,
to gather information that might be of value in planning the new junior high school to be erected in the southern part of Santa Ana.

When the school department men arrived at Whittier, they said, they found the schools closed, but school officials came to the rescue.

the Southern Counties Gas company were today recalling the many pleasant features of a patriotic program presented recently at their clubrooms here. A. L. Tucker presented to the president George Miller, a gavel of loquat wood banded with silver. Engraved on the band were the four principles of the corporation, service, loyalty, efficiency and co-operation. The musical program contained songs
by the men's quartette from the meter shop and was followed by refreshments prepared and served by the young women of the Efficiency club.

Due to Easter activities, the date
for a big dinner of the Federated Brotherhood of Santa Ana, consisting of fourteen evangelical churches of the city, has been changed, according to a statement by President J. R. Mayer, here, today.

"Originally," said Mayer, "we had planned to hold the banquet on the evening of March 30. On account of Easter activities, however, it was decided to change the date to Friday, March 23, at 6:30
p. m. There will be an excellent program, including good musical numbers. Covers will be limited, but we hope to take care of several hundred. The meeting place will be announced later."

James W. Foley, newspaper ver-sifier, will be the principal speaker, Mayer said. Tickets will be sold by members of the various Brother-hoods and at the Santa Ana Book store.

NELS EDWARDS HONOR GUEST AT HILARIOUS 'CONVENTION'

A hilarious political convention was held in Santa Ana last night. True, since the direct primary was enacted, political conventions are taboo. But for this occasion all law, order and rules were laid aside.

The occasion was the gathering of nearly 200 friends and admirers of Nelson T. Edwards, of Orange, in celebration of his appointment as a member of the state highway commission.

Sincere tributes were paid to Edwards during the evening. The gathering itself is looked upon today as a tremendous tribute to the popularity and standing of Commissioner Edwards. But in the interim between the tributes came blow after blow on the laughter anvil. The sparks flew, and the force roared. With a lavish hand the rowdies was applied on men in public life of the county.

In a measure, too, the evening was a reception to Leon O. Whitsell, of Villa Park, appointed supervisor of the fourth district to succeed Edwards.

Menu Cards Unique
The menu cards were labeled "Convention of Nels Edwards' party," with each item highway-ized. For instance, the salad course was announced as "Highway Lettuce and Good Roads Tomato Salad with Thousand Chuck-hole Dressing." The menu itself was designated as "Minutes of Convention."

On the card appeared these verses, written by Deputy County Clerk Earl Abbey:

"Nels" started out a "Butcher Boy," as this, he always pleased.

His smile, and style and hand—some face, elected him Trustee.

His wisdom shown in public life, will always live hereafter. The mails were bum, stamp sales were few, so they chose him for postmaster.

To see Cement upon our roads, was always his ambition. They picked him out to take the job upon the Road Commission.

"Bry" Williams thought the job was soft and afraid that he would shirk.

A morning bright and early finds him the County Clerk.

He held this job for quite a while and every day grew wiser; And when his term at this expired, was elected Supervisor.

The Governor in his careful way, started out a fishin'.

He jumped on "Nels"; he took the job, upon the State Commission.

He'll never stop at this big job, we've other things in store. In 1926 we'll put him in as Governor.

Drumm Presides
The convention was called to order by T. B. Talbert as temporary chairman, and Attorney Frank C. Drumm, of Orange, was given the gavel as permanent chairman.

Drumm presided throughout the evening with an ease and degree of wit that put a crack into every pop of the convention whips. Telegrams began to pour in.

First came two genuine telegrams from County Auditor W. C. Jerome and County Tax Collector J. C. Lamb, attending a state convention at Santa Barbara, sending their regrets. Then came eight or ten faked wires, each bearing down hard on individuals and events.

There was one purporting to be from Hiram W. Johnson asking A. J. Crookshank and J. P. Baumgartner to find out if Dr. C. D. Ball, inasmuch as Dr. Ball as assemblyman had voted for Merriam for speaker, had deserted the Johnson forces. Another one made capital out of the fact that Justus Craemer, of Orange, is a close friend and political advisor of Governor Richardson. It read like this:

"For Love o' Mike"
"For the love of Mike find Craemer for me. Have him call me on long distance telephone. I want him to pick out a good one for me to appoint to take care of the hot air furnace at the capitol building. I think he suggested a man named Elmer Jahraus for the job."

Another wire called attention of Commissioner Edwards "to fact that able committee consisting of C. L. Crumrine, Lew Wallace, J. P. Baumgartner and D. Eymann Huff made thorough investigation for Associated Chambers of Commerce and found cement concrete unit for use in road construction. We want to know why supervisors don't do as we say. If state highway commissioners want to know how to build roads we will tell them and save the expense of all this running around."

Another wire suggested that County Assessor James Sleeper be turned over to the Ku Klux Klan for getting the county into law suits through his assessments on the Birch Oil company property.

League "Protests"
A Taxpayers' league telegram protested because two alligators at the county park are feeding at the public crib.

Justice of the Peace Cox and "Budge" Lacy, former county jailer, were called to the front while Drumm read this wire to Sheriff Jernigan from Bebe Daniels:

"Please reserve nice sunny room in Orange county jail as I am traveling through your county again. Give my love to Judge Cox. He is a dear for giving me those beautiful roses. Tell Budge Lacy I love him still and will miss him at the jail."

There were other telegrams equally as entertaining.

And then came the convention resolutions in which whacks of various kinds were landed. Here are a few of the dig:

"Whereas Tom Talbert continues in his iniquity, and throughout these years, in spite of the loud and clamorous voice of the people, has refused to resign;

"Whereas, the movement to recover A. W. Rutan's campaign motorcycle that it may be added to the relics in the possession of the Orange County Historical society, seems likely to succeed, for he it known that any motorcycle that can be taught to throw a candidate for office into a ditch and jump on him ought to be given a gold medal and turned loose every two years;

Bert West Gets Advice
"Whereas, Bert West in running for city attorney of Santa Ana, early following in the footsteps of his illustrious father, should keep in mind, as his father has done throughout these years, that kissing the babies wins as many votes as throwing the bull;

"Whereas, the sheriff's office has now been made all Republican and the county thus freed from booze and bootleggers;

"Whereas, Horace C. Head persists in his stubborn attempt to beat the charter and thus prevents Santa Ana from being made safe for Democrats and taxpayers."

After these and other whereases, it was resolved, among other things, that C. C. Chapman be called on to endow an institution to which aged defeated candidates may retire, that "we solemnly pronounce the appointments of Nels Edwards and Leon Whitsell to be another great and glorious victory for the common people; if they can get by, any of the common people can."

Then Come Talks
Then came the talks, designated on the menu card as "Hot Air and Vinegar." Striking stories and apt phrases were intermingled with words of praise for Commissioner Edwards.

The card announced the following speakers:

Licking Stamps—Bill Hart. Have you Heard This One?—James S. Rice.

Starting Economy in the Face—Dr. C. D. Ball.

Watching Him Step—L. A. West. How Nels Gets By—R. J. McFadden.

The Extinct Party—H. C. Head. How It Feels to Fail at the Trough—Joe Burke.

Hanging Together—Z. B. West. Grabbing a Hold—Leon Whitsell.

Economy Past, Present and Future—Nels Edwards.

In addition, C. C. Chapman, Justus Craemer, and Edgar Johnson, the latter of Fullerton, who knew Edwards as a boy at Westminster, were called on.

Those present last night included the following:

Dr. C. D. Ball, R. J. McFadden, W. T. Newland, W. O. Hart, J. M. Backs, W. B. Williams, J. E. Watson, J. C. Drumm, T. B. Talbert, George Jeffrey, Wm. Schumacher.

S. H. Finley, J. C. Burke, E. B. Collier, H. A. Wassum, Alex P. Nelson, L. A. West, Dr. R. A. Cushman, John Allen, Leon Whitsell, J. R. Porter.

H. J. Parker, A. B. Smith, J. B. Cox, Z. B. West, Sam Jernigan, Geo. Frank Moore.

12 PERISH AS FIRE DESTROYS BUILDING

The occupants of the rooming house awoke to find themselves blinded by dense smoke and suffocating, according to Mrs. O. K. Hobson, a neighbor.

"I was awakened about 1:30 this morning by the barking of a dog and by a strange noise," said Mrs. Hobson. "I looked out the window and was blinded by the glare. The building was a mass of flames and dense smoke. Fire was spouting out of all windows and volleys of smoke were pouring out of the front entrance."

In the midst of this smoke, men and women, many with children in their arms, were groping their way hesitatingly, many of them almost overcome with fumes.

Losses Wife, Children
Elisba Colston, one of those who escaped, said he was awakened by his wife to find his apartment filled with dense smoke. Bundling up their three children, they started for the stairs.

COUNTY LEGION MEETS STIR S. A. VETS

Members of Santa Ana Post No. 131, American Legion, today were stirred with enthusiasm over two big meets that the American Legion will hold in Orange county in the near future, following announcement at a meeting of the local post last night that plans were under way for a "fathers' meeting" to be held in Santa Ana March 8, when all the posts of the county will join in the program, and that a committee had been appointed to arrange for a picnic and celebration in which county posts will join this spring.

Monte Hughes, commander of Camp Kearny, and Buron Pitts, former state commander of the American Legion, are expected to be guests of honor at the fathers' meeting, to which Legionnaires will be expected to bring their fathers.

To Tell Appreciation.
Commander Hughes will come here to express personally, on behalf of inmates of the hospital at Camp Kearny, appreciation for the interest that Orange county veterans are taking in providing for the sick men.

Plans for the joint meeting and the picnic were discussed at a dinner at the Cat's Piddle Wednesday evening, at which representatives from the seven posts in the county were present. The commander of each post was authorized to appoint one man to a county committee to arrange details of the picnic. An outing at Catalina was suggested.

L. A. Folk Speakers.
At last night's meeting of the Santa Ana post addresses were made by W. J. Ingraham, commander of Sunshine post, Los Angeles; LeRoy Smith, of the veterans' bureau, Los Angeles, and Mrs. Clara Hall, of the California Hut, Los Angeles. Mrs. Hall made a plea for assistance in enlarging the quarters of the hut and the local post pledged itself to provide a portable house.

Mrs. Gertrude Whitney presented to the members features of the coming entertainment for the benefit of the auxiliary.

The session closed with a boxing exhibition by Hank Gatten and Jack Imann.

Mrs. John W. Riddle, wife of the United States Ambassador to Argentina, has been elected an honorary member of the Argentine Society of Architects.

MOTORIST IS JAILED AS RECKLESS DRIVER

Arrested after officers declared he had knocked down a lamp post, smashed into a mail box and a tree, Wesley Wellers, Santa Ana, was lodged in the county jail on charges of reckless driving.

Wellers drove his roadster in such a manner as to damage several of the fittings at the corner of Washington avenue and North Main street, officers declared. After the collision he parked his car near a service station and walked toward the business district.

Officers Neuschwanger and Wolf arrested him.

ARE YOU THE WOMAN YOU WERE MEANT TO BE?

Every woman was meant to be healthy, happy and full her sphere in life to the best of her ability; but, alas, how few have the health or physical endurance to live up to their ideals! Over-ambitious, many of them develop nervousness, irritability, headaches, backaches, irregularities, and often more serious ailments which retard their progress in life. Women in this condition should turn to Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, a root and herb medicine which has been proven to benefit 98 out of every 100 women who try it. Let Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound make you well and strong, and the woman you were meant to be—adv.

Recent census figures show that there are in the United States nearly 14,000 actresses.

Colonial Forebears Honored at Party In Swales Home

In accordance with an established custom, the birthday of the Father of His Country was fittingly observed by his loyal children,
the Daughters of the American Revolution, who assembled last night at the charming Swales home on North Broadway in response to the invitation of the regent of the local chapter, Mrs.
Leonard G. Swales.

Greeting the guests at the doorway was Mrs. Swales' mother, Mrs. Emeline Bancroft Harmon, of Los Angeles, past regent of Escholtzia chapter of that city.
Mrs. Harmon was like a picture by Peale as she stood arrayed in a rarely beautiful colonial gown
with priceless lace shawl.

In the hall which was arranged in the colonial fashion, stood the receiving line, composed of Mrs. Swales and the three past regents, Mrs. Angus J. Crookshank, Mrs. William E. Otis and Mrs. Ella
Campau each garbed in correct
dress of the Revolutionary period.

The hall was banked with greenery, against which the American shield and the D. A. R. banner stood out in splendid relief. Lending a unique atmosphere was a beautifully preserved spinning wheel, at which sat its owner, Mrs.
Charles Kendall, Jr., costumed to harmonize with her surroundings.

The formal program of the evening opened with the singing of America with Mrs. Campau at the piano, after which a handsome silk flag was carried in by Mrs.
Minnie Holmes and displayed to the admiring gaze of the guests.
The flag, to be used at the unveiling of the Daughters' memorial,
will later be presented to the Y.
M. C. A. for use at the new building.

The salute to the flag was followed by a group of quaint old songs by a charming Puddin' maid, Miss Migonne Swales, who came from her studies at Pomona college for the occasion. Miss Swales wore a Puritan costume, whose dainty fichu, cap and apron were of exquisite embroidery, an heirloom in the family. Miss Ruth Armstrong acted as her accompanist.

Miss Swales then took her place
at the piano as accompanist for
Mr. and Mrs. Jesse Albright, who gave vocal duets, after which Masters Herbert Sammis and Robert Northcross gave a clever Americanization dialogue.

A trio in which Mr. Swales and his daughters took part with Mrs.
Swales playing the cello, Miss Catherine, the violin, and Miss Migonne, the piano, was followed by a vocal group by Mrs. H. M.
Sammis, with Miss Armstrong at the piano.

The formal program was conducted by the stately grace of the minut danced by Mrs. George Ashe, Mrs. D. K. Hammond, Miss Mary Harris and Miss Katherine Edwards, to the strains of violin and piano played by the Misses Catherine and Migonne Swales.
The four, in effective costume,
gave a beautiful exemplification
of the dance.

Hilarity reigned over a contest,
in which two silhouettes, a colonial belle and beau figured. The women guests attempted to pin a bouquet on the feminine silhouette,
while the men centered their efforts on a hat for the bare head of the other. Mr. Frank Blake won a small colonial hat for his success, while to Mrs. J. C. Metzgar was given a lovely nosegay from the gardens of Mrs. Crookshank.

A buffet supper was enjoyed in the dining room, where Mrs. Otis and Miss M. E. Hendia Henry, viceregent, presided at the handsome coffee urns of old Sheffield silver.
The patriotic motif was employed in the menu, in which individual cakes were decked with cherries,
green leaves, stems and all.

Over seventy guests were present to enjoy the affair and comprised
the members with their husbands and a few out-of-town guests, including Senator William Alden
Smith, Mrs. Smith and Mrs. Jewel of Grand Rapids, house guests of Senator Smith's sister, Mrs. Ella Campau and Mrs. Mary D. Leavens, who arrived from Fond-du-Lac, Wisconsin, a short time ago to be the guest for the remainder of the winter of Mrs. H. C. Humphrey, 1402 North Main street.

CITY FILES SUIT TO OBTAIN RIGHT OF WAY

The city of Santa Ana today began condemnation proceedings against Norman Berner Gruenewald, to secure a right of way for extension of Parton street north through property owned by him, as suit for that purpose was filed in superior court here.

It is desirable to extend North Parton street through property owned by the Gruenewald boy, whose affairs are attended to by a guardian, H. S. Gruenewald, the complaint set forth.

Washington Whist Given to Honor House-Guests

In harmony with popular entertaining of the season was the George Washington whist with which Dr. and Mrs. Ivo Lopzich honored their house-guests and cousins, Mrs. Frank Masters and Mrs. Jersey de Grut both of Mexico.

The pleasant affair was an event of Wednesday evening at the attractive home of the hosts
on the grounds of the Orange county hospital where decorations and appointments suggested the first great American.

In the exciting whist contest
the first prize was won by Dr. F.
W. Slabaugh who received a fascinating little ivory elephant totally the results of card games.
To Mrs. Masters was presented a box of Martha Washington sweets
as consolation gift.

Musical added to the pleasure of the event with Mrs. Slabaugh singing to her own accompaniment and playing for songs which Dr. Lopzich sang.

Mrs. Lopzich then played the accompaniments for a song group
by Mrs. de Grut.

At a late hour the hostess assisted by Mrs. Harry Zaiser served a delicious refreshment menu
in which the Washington motif predominated.

Dr. and Mrs. Lopzich's guests included in addition to Mrs. Masters and Mrs. de Grut, Dr. and Mrs. Harry E. Zaiser, Dr. and Mrs. Frank W. Slabaugh, Mr. and Mrs. A. F. Zaiser, Mr. and Mrs.
W. F. Iher and Messrs. Bank B.
Gordon and Charles Seaf of Los Angeles.

Fourth Travelers

Alaska offered a fruitful subject
for papers and discussion at yesterday's meeting of Ebells' Fourth Travelers at the home of Mrs. C.
P. Boyer on Tustin avenue.

The section considered itself
extremely fortunate to number among its members two who had an intimate knowledge of the country, gained through travels
there. These were Dr. Mabel Vance Tremain and Mrs. J. E. Liebig and each spoke most entertainingly.

Dr. Tremain gave an interesting historical sketch of Alaska followed by a detailed account of her trip. This was supplemented by Mrs. Liebig's story of a voyage up the Yukon and thence inland by motor for fully three hundred miles over the country which at that time
had no railroad system.

There were fifteen members and two guests, Mrs. Oliver Halsell and Mrs. J. Dick Wilson, present to enjoy the program and to share in the conversational afternoon which followed and during which many other interesting facts pertaining to that northern land were brought out.

Current Events

On Tuesday, February 27, at 1:45
p. m. members of the Current Events section of Ebells club will be entertained by Mrs. Ray Townsend, Mrs. C. V. Doty and Mrs.
George Faul Jr. at the home of Mrs.
Townsend, 926 South Main street.
Those unable to be present are requested to notify Mrs. Townsend by telephone (L16) not later than Monday noon.

Y. W. C. A.

An enthusiastic group of "High Y" girls meeting last night at the home of Miss Isabel Anderson, hemmed tea towels for the Y but kitchenette as they discussed
plans for furnishing the building and listened to an interesting program. The tea towels, like hangings and draperies of the new hut, will later be block-printed with the blue triangle of the organization.

The program opened with patriotic hymns honoring the season,
followed by an amusing reading,
"A Half Hour at the Beach," by Miss Mina Myrla. Miss Anderson
then gave an inspiring talk on "Friendship" and its importance in the organization, after which Miss Lila Johnson sang to the piano accompaniment of Miss Hazel Kinzel.

Refreshments of whipped jelly
and small cakes were served by Miss Wilma Plavan and her hospitality committee.

Hostesses Repeat Bridge Success

Repeating the social success of their Tuesday afternoon bridge
tea, Mrs. Adrian McCain and Mrs.
Elmer Preston again entertained a charming Wednesday afternoon at the home of Mrs. C. M. McCain, 2026
North Main street.

The same effective decorations
of red sweet peas and patriotic appointments were used throughout the spacious home as were employed in the first affair and at the conclusion of the afternoon as the guests chatted over a dainty collation, gifts were bestowed on the winning contestants of the afternoon's bridge session, Mrs. C.
D. Lester of Orange and Mrs.
Duane Holmes while consolation
fell to Mrs. E. S. Gilbert.

College Friendships Renewed by Group At House Party

Joys of a college reunion will be experienced over the week-end by a congenial group of former Pomona college girls who are in the city as guests of Miss Norma Win-good at her home, 1897 North Main street.

In 1917 the group occupied the first floor of one of the college dormitories and the associations
then formed have been kept up ever since with meetings at stated intervals in homes of different members.

In arranging for the pleasure of their guests, Miss Wingood will entertain at dinner tonight at the town house and tomorrow morning
the entire party will adjourn to the beach where "Cuttyhunk," the Balboa cottage of the hostess and her uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs.
W. G. Gould, will be the scene of festivities.

Bathing, boating and all beach
pleasures will occupy the attention of the revelers until Sunday morning when they return to Santa Ana and that evening will be the breaking-up of the party as the various members return to home and school duties.

Many of the girls are engaged in teaching, one or two have taken up settlement work, while others found their interests centered in home and husband.

Greeted by Miss Wingood, the group is composed of the Misses Mary Harris, Santa Ana; Ruth
Carothers, Pomona; Helen Marie
Nelson, Pasadena; Marjory Harris, Riverside; Ruth Anne Ledig, Huntington Park; Lucy Woolery, Los Angeles; Mrs. Harold Brokaw, Riverside; Mrs. Helen Kintzi, Los Angeles; Mrs. Ralph Howell, Upland, and Mrs. Raymond Elliott, Anaheim.

VILLA PARK FARMERS HAIL APPOINTMENT OF WHITSELL ON BOARD

Commending the action of Governor Richardson in appointing Leon O. Whitsell, president of the Villa Park farm center, as a member of the Orange county board of supervisors, the Villa Park farm center adopted a resolution at its meeting Wednesday night, it was learned here today.

A copy of the resolution was received by H. E. Wahlberg, Orange county farm advisor. It said:

"Whereas, Leon O. Whitsell,
president of the Villa Park farm
center, has been appointed a member of the Orange county board of supervisors, and

"Whereas, it is the belief of the members of this farm center that he is exceptionally well qualified for the duties of the office,

"Be it resolved that the Villa Park farm center hereby express its appreciation of the action taken by Governor Richardson in making the appointment; and further express its confidence that in Leon O. Whitsell the county and district has secured a faithful and efficient public servant."

SO. CAL. GRAIN MEN TO FORM EXCHANGE

Favorable reports having been received from Riverside, San Diego, San Bernardino and Los Angeles counties, the proposed five Southern Counties Grain Exchange, approved by Orange county grain growers, seemed certain of organization today, according to Edwin F. Whedon, secretary manager of the Orange county farm bureau.

Delegates from these counties will meet at the farm bureau office here tomorrow to attempt formal organization. T. E. Morgan, general manager of the California
Farm Bureau exchange, is expected to be present to outline the operations of the state exchange and assist in building the proposed new exchange of the five Southern California counties.

The meeting has been called for 10 a. m. at the farm bureau office.
Business will occupy the delegates
until noon, when they will adjourn
for lunch at James' cafe, according to the program. The definite proposal to form the grain exchange will be put before the meeting following the luncheon, it was announced.

CHAUTAUQUA DATES SET FOR MAY 7-13

Guarantors for Santa Ana's 1923
Chautauqua today received notices
that the dates set for the Chautauqua are May 7, Monday, to May 13, Sunday, inclusive.

The Ellison-White Lyceum and Chautauqua association, which will provide the Chautauqua program here, has sent local guarantors letters in which it says:

"In talent on your circuit alone
we have invested almost $20,000 more than last year's figures. The program will open with a fine full-cast production of the play, 'Turn to the Right,' which was delictfully read a few years ago on this same circuit by Edwin Whitney.
The closing number will be Thaviu's Exposition band, said to be the best traveling band organization now before the American public. Among the speakers will be Tom Skeyhill whom you remember from the 1921
program and who has just lately returned from another enlightening visit to disturbed Europe. We will give you details as to these other attractions a little later."

Happy Gathering Of Old-Time Friends To Celebrate Birthday

Tuesday, February 20 was a most happy occasion when one of Orange county's pioneers, Mrs.
Verenus Hogle of Fullerton, reached the eighty-sixth milestone of a useful and beautiful life and in honor of the event assembled in her home, twenty-three of her old time friends to reminisce of "Auld Lang Syne."

Floral decorations of the home
were chiefly green and white while the colors of the tables were white hyacinths, pink roses and fragrant freesias.

The luncheon at high noon was dearly to be a chef d'oeuvre of culinary skill and all home prepared. No more need be said other than it was served beautifully and bountifully by the two daughters of the hostess, Mrs. Carrie Smith and Mrs. Edith Chrisman and one daughter-in-law, Mrs. Stephen Hogle.

Mrs. Chrisman, a clever toast-mistress, staged an enjoyable improvised program in which Mrs.
Alice Yount gave a fine reading as did Mrs. Elida Huntington while each guest as her name was called responded with a few words of gladness for being present.

The program concluded with a short talk by Mrs. Elizabeth Mills in which she touched upon the long years of friendship enjoyed with the hostess and read Van Dyke's poem "Work" also an appropriate bit from Robert Louis Stevenson.

And so ended "a perfect day"
and farewells were said with the expressed hope of continuing such happy gatherings on the same date
in years to come.

Celebrating with Mrs. Hogle were Mesdames Emma Mosbaugh, Alice Yount, Elida Huntington, Corie Butcher, Stella Butcher,
Menges, Alice Turner, J. W.
Rankin of this city, Elizabeth H.
Mills, Orange; Mesdames Sage,
Edgin Sadie Hogle, Carrie Culmer
Smith, Ol Culmer, Mary Hilliker, Katie Butler Low, Day Smiley,
Los Angeles; Harry Hogle Crook,
Stephen Hogle, Fullerton; Edith Hogle Chrisman, Redondo; Carrie Hogle Hill, Garvanza; George Bassouille, Bell, while sharing the pleasures of the noon-day meal were the Messrs. Verenus Hogle of the home, George W. Low of Los Angeles and George F. Hogle.

The sole regret received was from a grand-daughter, Miss Ruth Chrisman, an art student in New York City who wired her love and congratulations.

The happy associations thus continued where their beginning back in Bloomfield, Indiana and its vicinity where most of those present were born. All were at one time residents of Santa Ana.

Eastern Star

Introducing a pleasant feature added to the regular Eastern Star meetings, James T. Carter, worthy matron of Santa Ana chapter, O. E. S., today announced that informal dancing would follow the chapter session to open at the Masonic temple Monday night, February 26, at the usual hour, 8 p. m.
All Eastern Star members are extended a cordial invitation to be present and enjoy the affair.

Queen Esther Circle

Queen Esther girls of the First
M. E. church are anticipating many guests at the colonial party which they are giving tonight at 7:30 in the parlors of the church. Elaborate plans for decoration are being carried out today and the hostess group will offer an entertaining program as part of the evening's pleasure. Members and friends of the church are extended a cordial invitation to come and enjoy the evening.

After one month as a lawmaker,
Mrs. Edith Willman, Texas' first and only woman legislator, is convinced that woman's place is in the home.

The Old Reliable Family Remedy for Building Up
the System, Nervous Disorders, Insomnia, etc.

Neglect of sleeplessness, depression and nervous disorders of any kind is extremely dangerous. All too many men and women, compelled to go out into the world and battle for a living, neglect their health to such an extent that a nervous breakdown is the inevitable result. It is best to be warned in time, so that these nervous ailments may be checked.

diana, says:

"Dr. A. W. Chase's Tonic Pills are helping me in every way possible as I was in very bad shape
when I began the use of these. I am feeling better every day. The treatment is working wonders in my case, as my case is about thirty-eight years standing."

Little Maids Enjoy Merry Party

A happy group of little girls met yesterday afternoon at the home of Miss Lillian Napier, 215 South Broadway, to enjoy a meeting of the club which was recently organized.

Games and contests offered entertainment while a rug spread on the lawn and the music of a phonograph offered opportunity for merry dances.

Late in the afternoon little Miss Lillian served marshmallows, wafers, cookies, Eskimo pie and red and white candies to her guests,
while tiny silk flags as favors suggested Washington's birthday.

Lillian's guests were Dolly Cox,
Marjory Burns, Viola Chapman, Aline Buck, Elizabeth Smith, Pauline Folkers and Maxine Jensen.

Past Matrons

The monthly luncheon of the Past Matrons' association will be enjoyed by the members as guests of Mrs. C. E. Moore, Mrs. Minnie Holmes and Mrs. John Strassberger
when they meet at the Masonic temple Tuesday, February 27, at 1 o'clock.

Mrs. Mary McAuliffe, who looks
after the boilers in a Pittsburgh, Pa., public school, is the only licensed woman engineer in that city.

SINGER URGES ROSE FESTIVAL OPERAS SONG IN ENGLISH IS PLANNED FOR 1923

An ardent supporter of grand opera in English is Theo. Karle, the American tenor, who is to appear March 2 at 8 p. m. at the high school auditorium here in recital. Karle, one of the most popular of the present-day concert singers, is purely an American product. He was found singing in a choir in Olympia, the capital of Washington.

Karle has never crossed the Atlantic, although he was in the army during the war. He has been associated with artists of all countries, but he has not adopted the usual practice of American musicians of spending time in travel and study in Europe. When summer brings the end of the music season, instead of starting for France, Germany or Italy, he comes to the Pacific coast. He has been singing for five seasons.

Singing in English Urged

In a recent interview Karle said:

"Opera companies will grow up, I believe, in numbers in the country and will become more American than they have been. Why, I ask wherever I go, do we not have our opera in our own language? The average person who attends an opera performance hears everything in an alien tongue and understands little of it. When we have opera in English, there will be more chance, I am sure, for American singers than there is at present. English can be sung, you know, as well as any other language, though you must know how to do it. The citizens of New York and Chicago spend large amounts of money on opera every year and get little return in comparison with what they should."

Karle recalled that he himself has taken part in the presentation of 10 or more operas in English. "Lohengrin" among them, which went especially well to a translated text. He talked in favor of English in recital as well as in opera, remarking:

Request Serious Programs

"My audiences are constantly favoring more serious programs. But they had rather have a big song with an English text, no matter what the original may be. Especially is that the case away from New York. Listeners like to know the story of a song. But oh, a book of words, talk not to me of that! If the artist sings well, no book of words is needed. In my repertoire is a Rachmaninoff piece, which I used to sing to German text. Since the war I have sung it in English, and it has become one of my best successes."

Appearing in this city under the auspices of the Padgham Brunswick shop, the artist promises an unusually interesting and well-balanced program. Characteristic of his thoughtful regard for an audience's preferences, Karle will not use any songs which he has perpetrated in records except in case of demanded encores, it was stated.

Here is Program

With Thomas George at the piano, the Friday night program will consist of five groups as follows:

"Caro mio ben," Giordani (1743); "To Zelinda," Putti (1737); "Over the Steppes," Gretchaninoff; "Au Pays," Holmes.

The second group will offer "At Night," Rachmaninoff; "Songs of Russia," Rachmaninoff; "Im Zitternden Mondlicht Wiegen," Haile; "None but the Lonely Heart," Tschalkowsky.

In the third group will be "Cielo e mar," (La Gioconda) Ponchinelli, while the fourth will offer two Mexican folk songs (arranged by LaForge; "La Golondrina" and "Estrellita;" "To a Messenger;" "Sanctuary," LaForge.

Concluding the program will be "To a Hilltop," Cox; "Twilight," Glen; "Peggy," Cox; "To the Sun," Curran.

PORTLAND, Ore., Feb. 23.—The annual Rose Festival, Portland's gala floral event, will be held this year June 12, 13 and 14, according to an announcement following a recent meeting of civic delegates with the Rose Festival auxiliary.

A committee of five has been appointed to draft a permanent festival plan, to eliminate many of the catch-as-catch-can arrangements which have hitherto been gone through with every year. The new committee is expected to work out a plan which will establish the festival on a firm, permanent basis.

As a permanent body to carry out the plans drawn up by this committee, it was suggested that the Royal Rosarians assume the responsibility of putting the festival over each year. The Rosarians are an association of Portland flower lovers and growers.

O. W. Mielke, president of the auxiliary, has been authorized to name the committee which will confer with the Rosarians, draft the necessary plans and report to the auxiliary. Plans are already being made to insure a huge crop of roses for the three-day carnival.

COUNTIES FREE FROM DEBT

SACRAMENTO, Feb. 23.—Fifteen California counties are clear of indebtedness, according to their annual statements filed with State Controller Ray L. Riley. The total indebtedness of all California counties for 1922 was fixed at $119,221,295, of which San Francisco county is charged with $71,117,200.

The following counties are the ones which report no indebtedness: Calaveras, Amador, Humboldt, Inyo, Mariposa, Mono, Nevada, Placer, Tuolumne, Trinity, Siskiyou, Sierra, Shasta, Marin and Cadera.

THREE IN AUTO CRASH

STERLING, Ill., Feb. 23.—Alex. J. Grove of Ottumwa, Ia., victim of an automobile accident near here, is in a hospital recovering from concussion of the brain. Grove's wife and daughter, cut by glass, also are in the hospital. The accident happened on the Lincoln highway.

CORNETIST OF S. A. WINS WAY INTO FAMOUS JAZZ BAND

Is Featured Soloist With Noted Orchestra In S. F. Theater

WINS BY HARD WORK

Earned Money by Carrying Papers Here to Pay for First Instrument

From street band musician to star performer in the best known jazz orchestra on the Pacific coast. This is what practice, perseverance and determination have done for Jimmy Kelly, graduate of the Santa Ana high school and former cornetist of the Santa Ana Elks' band.

Years ago when he was in grammar school here, Kelly, who says he plays because he loves it, decided to master some instrument. With money that he saved from carrying a paper route he purchased a cheap cornet. He took a few lessons but he picked up most of his knowledge through long and hard practice.

Is Natural Musician. He learned rapidly. He was a natural musician. And he learned well.

Today he is one of the best known members of Ben Black's famous Californians. He is paid a large salary. At each appearance of the jazz-makers, who have taken San Francisco by storm, Kelly faces the audience at the costly California theater there and while a spotlight centers on him plays solo numbers.

Santa Ana residents recall the days when a little, short-trousered fellow, tooting at his little cornet, trudged along in parades with the local street band. That was Kelly. Through his high school course here, which he completed three years ago, he was a member of the Poly orchestra.

Joins College Orchestra. At Stanford university he was sought by Whitmer's orchestra, the best on the campus, and earned his expenses in this way through a year of college.

Then he joined the orchestra at Babylon, a fashionable caravansary on the bay at San Carlos.

Last summer he played with John McDonald's summer orchestra at gay Santa Cruz. His musical genius attracted such attention there that he was personally sought by Ben Black.

The San Francisco orchestra star made Kelly such an offer that the Santa Ana boy decided he could not refuse and he left college to continue his education in the musical world.

SEXLESS SELLING HERE SAYS WOMAN INSURANCE AGENT

MISS CONSTANCE WOODWARD.

NEW YORK, Feb. 23.—There's no longer any sex in business.

The important official behind the mahogany desk doesn't give a rap whether the person on the other side of the desk is a petite blond with a rose in her hair or a lanky individual with a shrub on his lip and a stooge.

Pretty Constance Woodward, successful insurance agent who recently sold a record policy for $500,000, has made the discovery.

"When I started selling insurance eight years ago," she says, "things were different. Then women were rare in the field and when I started out in the morning with a policy and a pencil I was reasonably sure to encounter two attitudes: the man I approached was either interested in the novelty of being sold something by a woman and was unusually deferential or else he was actively hostile because 'women don't know anything about business'."

"Now—the business woman has lost her novelty. Prove to a man that your proposition is a good one and he doesn't give a thought to age, sex or color. No longer can a woman, just because she is a woman, expect to wheedle her way past the office boy and take up a busy man's time."

"But a woman, calling on a prospect not as a woman, but as a salesman, need never fear discourteous treatment.

"The bigger the man is the more considerate he is in listening. It is the junior bank clerk who puts on airs.

"But the day is gone when a woman in business can look to her sex either as an aid or a hindrance. Men simply aren't aware of it any longer."

BIG SUCCESS FORECAST FOR 'HOTTENTOT'

Over—

'Way over everything in laughs and thrills and spills.

That's what the managers of "The Hottentot," the junior class play to be presented at the high school auditorium tonight, predicted today for the performance.

You will find 100 per cent thrills in "The Hottentot," which smacks of all the sensation and snap of the real steeplechase atmosphere, students declared.

The excitement of the play gathers momentum from the opening lines and comes to a crashing climax as the man who couldn't stick on a rocking horse rides the Hottentot, the most fiery animal in the country, in a glorious race from start to finish.

Story Cleverly Told. How the girl he loves, who is a racing fiend, tells him to ride the Hottentot and how to win the race, and he who has never ridden before stages a knockout on the day of the big event, is cleverly set forth in a series of gripping situations.

The local cast is thoroughly in character and Mable Prewitt is as

$300,000 PAID TO FOOTHILL CITRUS MEN

Annual Report of Secretary Submitted to Stockholders at Meeting

"Although the season of 1922 was a particularly difficult one," J. D. Spennetta, secretary of the Foothill Valencia Growers, pointed out in his annual report, submitted today to the association stockholders at their annual meeting at Orange, "the gross receipts for 206 cars of valencias and fifty-two cars of lemons amounted to $393,686.43. Of this amount, $306,408.31 was paid to the growers."

Continuing, the secretary declared that the present organization expects to incorporate under the name of the Red Fox Orchards. Necessary articles of incorporation and by-laws have been prepared by attorneys representing the growers.

"The new organization," said Spennetta, "will market its fruit to the Orange County Fruit exchange, which is a member of the California Fruit Growers' exchange."

"During the year we shipped 206 cars of valencias, basing the shipments upon 400 boxes to the car. The percentage of fruit shipped each month, and the average f. o. b. price follows:

Gives Table	Per cent.
"April .....	4	$4.63
"May .....	6	6.28
"June .....	7	6.22
"July .....	12	5.86
"August .....	8	4.10
"September .....	16	4.52
"October .....	34	2.62
"November .....	13	2.37

"This is for all grades and sizes. Had the prediction of high market for October and November come true, our general average would have placed us in an enviable position, as we have saved 47 per cent of our fruit for these late shipments and of our total shipments 54 per cent were under guaranteed brands and 46 per cent were under merchantable brands."

Tells Percentages. "Of our guaranteed fruit 49 per cent was packed, Sunkist, 46 per cent, Choice, and 5 per cent standards."

"Of our merchantable brands, 58 per cent was packed extra choice and 42 per cent seconds; of our entire shipments only 34 per cent were 200's and larger, 44 per cent were 216 and 252; 21 per cent were 288's and smaller."

"Analysing these grades and sizes, one can realize some of the problems of marketing. In making up the percentage of each size on guaranteed and merchantable brands, much attention is attracted to the fact that on the same size of either quality, there is less than 1 per cent difference."

"After picking to size during our first pool, and the slight growth of fruit during the season, it is pleasing to note that a comparison of sizes between the first and second pools shows the second pool to be very close to the sizes on the first; this in a meas-

S. A. GIRL WINS HONORS WITH TRANSLATION

Southland Competition in Study of French Won by First-Year Student

Adding to the prestige which the Santa Ana high school and the junior college hold among institutions of learning in the Southland, was the honor accorded a first year student at the junior college, Miss Regina Devault, who was today receiving congratulations from her friends on the part taken yesterday in a French program presented by the Causeries Francaises.

The Causeries Francaises is an organization sponsored by the French section of the Modern Language association of California and yesterday afternoon provided the program of an interesting session in Los Angeles at the Senteros auditorium. Representatives from the French colony and from all the more prominent high schools and colleges of Southern California were present.

Appearing on the program were local students who, under the direction of Miss Lella Watson of the Santa Ana high school and junior college faculty, gave an interesting section of the program.

Miss Devault's honors were accorded her for a translation of a French poem. Three prizes were offered for the best translation and the young Santa Ana, a beginner in French, carried off the honors with the following verses:

WINTER
The soft snow falls upon the roofs
In fine and star shaped flowers;
It clothes the earth in bridal robes—
Her streets, her cots, her towers.

'Tis snowy, blowy winter time;
Flakes fly in dizzy mirth;
Some, drunken, fall into the sea,
Some whirl upon the earth.

And soon the earth is in a shroud
As linen smooth and white,
Save where some passerby has left
His footstep's straggling blight.

Then in a young and laughing band,
As a fleeting lightning flash,
The children pass upon their sleds
As with the wind they dash.

The joyous north wind blows a gale;

It rumps with man and tree;
Stinging, whistling as it flies
It shakes each small roof-tree.

The children's mother bids them come Within; and to remember
Some have neither lights nor fires,
Exposed to bleak December.

Program Presented. The remainder of the program as presented by local students included "Danse d'une Poupée" by Miss Ethel Smallwood; drama, "Le Chien et le Loup" D'après La Fontaine, Overton Luhr and Carl Haggie; recitation, "La Conscience," Miss Mary Griset; legends gas-

LIBRARIANS TO ASSEMBLE AT LONG BEACH

Librarians of Orange county and surrounding territory today planned to gather at Long Beach for the annual meeting of the sixth district of the California Library association.

Miss Jeannette E. McFadden, librarian of Santa Ana, and Miss Margaret Livingston, librarian of the Orange county free library, are expected to attend. "The library as a business asset of the community," is programmed as the main address and discussion of the meeting. Miss Susan T. Smith, president of the California Library association, and Milton J. Ferguson are to lead the discussion of this subject.

Everett R. Perry of Los Angeles is announced to report on the new library building planned at Los Angeles.

Plan Open Meeting. The special library association of Southern California, with Mrs. Vivian Smith presiding, is to hold an open meeting at a round table on business libraries.

Administration of the smaller library is to be the subject of a talk by Miss Mary Boyton, librarian, Dean Hobbs Blanchard Memorial library, Santa Paula.

Miss Elizabeth Topping, librarian, Ventura county free library, is programmed for a talk on cataloging.

Mrs. Gretchen Smith Boyle, president, School Library association Huntington Park union high school library, and Mrs. Gladys Case, principal department of children's work, Los Angeles public library, are to tell of children's librarians and school librarians.

Pomonan to Speak. Reference work is to be treated by V. E. Marriott, librarian, Pomona college.

HOT POLITICAL TIPS IN WIND CAUSE 'WISE ONES' MUCH AGITATION

Man on Street Hears Considerable Chatter as to This or That Office

SITUATION WARMS UP

Question of Who Will Go Out After Which Post Excites Dopesters

Definite announcement by City Attorney G. H. Scott that he will not be a candidate to succeed himself; declaration by Z. B. West jr., that he will file nominating papers for this office, and intimations by Roland Thompson, prominent attorney, that he may decide to enter the race against West, had set political tongues wagging here today.

Now that the political pot, which has been quietly simmering for the past few weeks, has shown marked signs of boiling, many questions were being asked by the man in the street. Chief among these were the following:

Who will be the next president of the board of trustees, or, as he is popularly known, the mayor of Santa Ana? Will members of the present board stand for re-election in the battle of the ballots at the polls in the spring?

Again, who will handle the business of the city clerk's office, that of city treasurer, and that of the city recorder?

Who'll Be Marshal? Further, who is going to run for the position of city marshal, left vacant by the promotion of Sam Jernigan to the post of high sheriff of Orange county?

And, turning from purely city offices to the educational branches, how about this, and what about that? Who will be president of the next board of education? What new names will grace the roster?

"Well," says the man in the street, with a puzzled frown, "I dunno; I dunno. Anyway, it's a little early, isn't it?"

But is it? According to City Clerk E. L. Vegely, nominating petitions, signed by not less than five and not more than ten electors, must be on file here on or before March 20.

"Well, that's not so far off, after all, is it?" exclaimed Mayor J. G. Mitchell, when asked if he intended to fling his turban into the ring. "My, my, a lot of things can happen though, in a few weeks! Now, isn't that true?"

And further than this His Honor refused to go.

It was much the same with Councilman C. H. Chapman and other members of the present board—with the exception of Councilman H. H. Dale, who seems to be definitely out of the running.

"I'm too busy," Dale has said to friends who questioned him concerning his future activities. "I think it may safely be said that the city council will have to struggle along without me."

Chapman, however, while declining to say he would run, refused to admit that he would not.

"So you are on the fence?" was the question hurled at him.

"Yes, sir, on the fence," he responded. "Just, sitting on the fence, as it were."

But if possibilities are few and far between with reference to the position of city trustee, the reverse is true in connection with the post of city marshal.

Rogers Candidate? Surely! The man in the street may not be able to tell you much about who is going to be "it" in the council, or on the school board, but he tells you glibly enough that there will be a number of candidates for the

WALL ST. JOURNAL FINANCIAL REVIEW

Traders Hold Off as Big Banking Houses Boost Discount Rates

NEW YORK, Feb. 23.—Judging by the action of the stock market, Wall street at first was a little doubtful about how to interpret the advance in discount rates by reserve banks of Boston and New York. It was natural many traders should regard the increase as a warning such as was sounded toward the apex of the last bull market. Bankers, however, took a different view, regarding the higher rate as a constructive step, reflecting the growing demand for commercial credit.

The sugar issues were helped by an advance in Cuban raws to a new high of 5 1/2 cents. American Locomotive, Producers and Refiners and American Woolen showed every indication of strength, as did Utilities, North American going into high territory.

The market closed irregular. Closing prices:
U. S. Steel 107 5/8; Gulf States Steel 91 3/8, off 2 3/8; Republic 1-4, off 1 1/4; Baldwin 130-127 7/8, up 1 7/8; Producers and Refiners 84, up 1 7/8; Pan American 30-28, off 2 3/8; Texas Company 50 7/8, off 1 1/4; Studebaker 120 5/8, up 3/4; General Motors 15 1/8, Rubber 60-58, off 2 3/4; Northern American 118, up 1 3/4; American Woolen 105, up 1 1/4; Corn Products 137 1/8, up 1 1/8; Marine Pfd. 41 1/2; Cuba Cane 58-58, up 7/8; Anaconda 51 1/8, up 3/8.

GRAIN PRICES DROP ON CHICAGO BOARD

(By United Press Leased Wire)
CHICAGO, Feb. 23.—Grain prices closed lower on the Chicago board of trade today as the result of a slower demand in the foreign markets.

Some export trade developed in wheat but the foreign prices were under the domestic quotations. Most of the selling was done by houses with eastern connections. The cold wave forecast for the southern wheat belt failed to materialize and rains were reported in this section.

Corn closed under the same influences that caused the wheat decline. Some export business was worked on the board.

Oats was fractionally lower in sympathy with other grains. About 100,000 bushels were worked for export, which is the largest shipment in some time.

pert Hughes pictures, a smiling
comedy-drama of everyday American life, with a tear lurking in it, opens a three-day run at the Temple theater tonight.It is called "Gimme" and the scenario was written by Hughes and his wife, Adelaide Hughes. It is said to be a picture which will appeal to every woman because it deals with that subject of perennial interest to womankind, a wife's financial dependence on her husband—even for pocket money.Fanny Daniels marries Clinton Ferris, son of the wealthy Mrs. Roland Ferris, who objects to his throwing himself away on a mere designer in an interior decorating shop and promptly throws him on his own financial resources.These prove not to be very great and Fanny finds herself wearing shabby clothes. She has no money and is ashamed to ask Clinton for
it. Necessity finally drives her to ask and he gives her permission to draw out $200 from the $500 which they have in the bank.Fanny, however, is forced to draw out the entire amount to pay back a loan from the proprietor of the interior decorating shop to escape his unwelcome attentions.And when Clinton's check for $300 is returned marked no good,
there is an explosion which results in Fanny's leaving Clinton and going back to her old job.

EDITH ROBERTS STARS IN FILM AT PRINCESS.Edith Roberts, who was selected as lead opposite Edward Horton for the production, "A Front Page Story," now showing at the Princess, has a long list of extremely successful pictures to her credit as leading woman, in addition to having been starred for more than two years previous to the vogue of all star casts.Recent engagements include the featured role in "Son of Wolf,"
"What a Wife Learned," and Saturday Night," in which she appeared in the featured lead. Recently she completed work in the production, "Thorns and Orange Blossoms," and had the leading ingenue part in the production,
"The Dangerous Age."In "A Front Page Story" Miss Roberts has the role of an affectionate daughter who is first assistant, pal and chief inspiration to a noble father whose generosity
has carried him into dire financial straits that nearly result in his losing a small town newspaper
which he owned and edited for many years."GARRISON'S FINISH" IS PICKFORD'S BEST.Jack Pickford never made a better motion picture than "Garrison's Finish," now showing at the West End theater."Garrison's Finish" is one of those swift-moving racing stories.
It is replete with consuming excitement together with pleasing romance and compelling drama. It is one of those all-action pictures
in which there is no let-up from the inception to the very finale.Jack portrays the character of a heroic jockey. Forsooth, he was never better cast and with the charming Midge Bellamy supporting him as a beautiful romantic fil-lows in doing some of the best brilliant career.Every feature of this film is parexcellence. The photography is little short of marvelous, the scenes of the Kentucky Derby and the Metropolitan Handicap being particularly impressive.Mary Pickford herself wrote the titles and edited the film.

much at home in her stunning rid-

Fairfax could ever have been.Norman Pitkey is the screamingly funny combination of the man who is sickly afraid of horses and who at the same time puts on the bold front of the racing enthusiast as he talks over plans for the dreaded steeplechase with the lady of his heart, who in her excitement never notices the side
play in which Sam Harrington brings out so vividly his real character.All of the members of the cast are on edge for the performance tonight.Ticket Sale Gratifies.
There will be very few of the high school students who will not be present and the ticket sale to the townspeople indicates a full and appreciative house.Stage Manager George Gerwing
and his hand-working crew are almost as excited about the play as the members of the cast, if not as much so. They are displaying all of the keen delight in their clever stage sets shown by a small boy with some new toys, it was said.Stage sets, lights, music, ushering and the performance of the play itself in all of its phases will be top-notch, if the dress rehearsal
and appearance of things back stage is any indication.Tickets not sold will be on sale at the box office tonight at the high school auditorium.HOT POLITICAL post vacated by Sam Jernigan and now held, by appointment, by Claude L. Rogers.Will Rogers be candidate? Of course, says the man with his ear to the ground. Then there are rumors and counter rumors, with various names suggested for the marshalship.Chief among these is that of Theo ("Budge") Lacy, county jailer

for many years and a man of many friends."Lacy may or may not run,"
says the man in the street. "He has not said he would—nor has he said he would not."Other names advanced include those of Sid Smithwick and W. H.
Wolfe, members of the police department, and Stephen A. Clark, service station proprietor, real estate operator and former opponent of Sam Jernigan. Wolfe, less widely known than Clark and the others prospective candidates, was formerly an officer in Columbus, O."I Don't Know" echoed Clark, when asked concerning his plans."Well, I don't know. There has been some talk, of course. My friends have been coming to me
and asking me to make the race again. They say I could win, that Jernigan was a hard man to beat,
but it is different now. I haven't decided, but I can tell you one thing: If I do run, and am elected,
I will see that the laws are enforced. My friends know that."As for the other city positions, the man in the street was inclined to credit the report that Ed Vegely, present city clerk, will seek re-election; that City Recorder William H. Heathman will be in the lists, with a whisper from the radio that Clinton ("Red") Innes is seriously considering opposing Heathman, and the usual assortment of random "hunches."Other "hunches" expressed by a number of Santa Ana residents,
was that George McPhee, county
sealer of weights and measures,
and Edwin F. McFadden, prominent merchant, might be induced to enter the race for city trustee.
Many friends, it was explained,
could be found who would sing
their praises.In connection with the fight for places on the educational board, it was pretty generally agreed, according to the man in the street,
that Frank L. Andrews, present secretary of the board, should seek re-election. And it was much the same with C. F. Smith, a member of the board who, it was believed,
will seek re-election. Others considered as likely candidates were
L. G. Swales and Alex Brownridge.
"It seems fitting," said a member of the school board who has announced his determination to retire, "that F. L. Andrews continue to serve, if it meets with the entire approval of the voters. He is thoroughly conversant with the board's duties, has shown a deep and lasting interest in educational matters and would be well qualified to assist the new board in carrying out the important work undertaken here."Alex and Swales Boosted.
In school circles, it was said that both Brownridge and Swales would prove highly acceptable to educators.To be acceptable, a man must bring to this important office a broad and sympathetic knowledge of educational matters," said a prominent school worker here today. "Alex Brownridge has always evinced a lively interest in schools and school problems. Therefore,
he should make an excellent member of the school board."RAY WINS MILE.

ure, being due to the use of a special shoo and paper at an additional cost of only approximately 10 cents a box.Hit by Car Shortage.
"On account of car shortage, it was necessary to use La Verne cold storage for a portion of our shipments. This was also done with the idea of placing ourselves in a more desirable marketing position.
While this did so, so far as we can see, bring us an additional price per box, we without doubt helped sustain the earlier market level.""Besides that, it enabled us to continue to operate under strike
conditions, maintaining at all times
our picking and packing organizations, which was highly desirable
at that particular time, in fact, imperative. The last benefit, alone, was worth more than the entire cost, which was approximately 3 cents a box on the entire pool.""It seems desirable that we cooperate with the Central Lemon association in handling the lemon situation in the district, consequently the board of directors entered into an arrangement with the Central Lemon association whereby the outputs of the two houses were pooled together."To Repeat Plan.
"This proved eminently satisfactory and a similar arrangement is being worked out for the coming season. Our total shipments amounted to 52 cars, figuring 400
boxes to the car. Of those shipped, 32 per cent were extra choice; 62
per cent choice and 6 per cent
standard, averaging $3.62 a cwt.""Prices started on a very reasonable basis in April, considering the prospective short crop, advanced rapidly in May and June, only to be followed by a general decline to the end of the season, with a few occasional bright spots.""As soon as picking was under way, it was evident that to fill the demands of the trade it would be necessary to pick to size. This we did through our first pool, except in extraordinary cases. At this time, according to the best information obtainable, and the experience of those conceded to be the wisest heads, there was every reason to believe that even our small sizes
would bring marvelous prices late in the season owing to crop shortage."Cites 1913 Experience.
"We were, however, disappointed.
The experience of 1913 taught everyone concerned, that there was an opportunity of improvement in damaged fruit by 'holding.' This was true in 1922, up to a certain time, and then fruit depreciated very rapidly. By filling in, it was difficult to separate, and much of it would pass inspection which was really far from pleasing to the consumer.""This finally resulted in a consumers' boycott on California oranges, regardless of quality. The results were a very poor market.
While it may be easy to criticize
the marketing of the last crop,
after a full analysis is made of all conditions, it is doubtful if more real net money could have been brought to California had other plans been followed."S. A. GIRL WINS

Getting Johnny off to School

A quick, nourishing breakfast for school children is a problem easily solved. Just serve them Shredded Wheat.

The crisp, tasty oven-baked shreds of whole wheat with milk make Nature's perfect food combination for growing youngsters. It gives strength to the body, and a clear brain for work or play. It's a real fuel-food—whole wheat grain prepared in its most digestible form.

Shredded Wheat is 100% whole wheat, ready-cooked and ready-to-eat. A perfect, delicious food for any meal of the day. Serve it simply with milk or cream, or topped with berries or fruits. Contains all the bran you need to stimulate bowel movement. It is salt-free and unsweetened—you season it to your taste.

Triscuit is the Shredded Wheat Cracker—a real whole-wheat toast. Try it with butter, soft cheese or marmalades.

The Story of ORANGE BLOSSOM COFFEE

ORANGE BLOSSOM Coffee is the highest grade of coffee, put up in glass-lined bags immediately after roasting. Only one day's supply is prepared at a time, and dealers are supplied with just enough coffee for their immediate needs.

This system of preparing and delivering Orange Blossom Coffee does away with the necessity of packing in expensive tins—enabling you to obtain the freshest and most delicious coffee with all its original aroma and strength intact at a saving of several cents per pound.

SCHOOL BLOC FORMED TO FIGHT GOVERNOR

VISALIA, Feb. 9.—The San Joaquin valley legislature bloc is the name of a movement launched here as the result of a meeting here last night of principals of Tulare county high schools, at which the stand of Will C. Wood, state superintendent of public instruction, in opposing Governor Richardson's budget, was approved. The object of the "bloc", it was announced, is to assure, if possible, "funds sufficient to guarantee adequate school operation for the next two years." A meeting is planned with the assemblymen and state senators of the valley counties to learn the facts concerning the budget appropriation and to formulate plans, if possible, to assist Superintendent Wood's campaign to secure more money for the operation of the school system of the state.

157 MIDSHIPMEN TO LEAVE NAVAL SCHOOL

WASHINGTON, Feb. 20.—Soon after it was announced that 157 Annapolis midshipmen had been dropped for deficiency in their studies, the office of Secretary of the Navy Denby was flooded with letters from members of congress urging reinstatements. Secretary Denby was at home, nursing a cold, but it was said at his office that there can be no reinstatements. The final decision is with the academic board of the naval academy. Even if the secretary were disposed to interfere he could not do so.

In addition to the 157 who were compelled to resign, 10 were dropped to lower classes and 158 were placed on probation. Ninety of those who failed to pass the semi-final examination were in the "plebe" class.

COUNTY TEAM MAY PLAY IN NATIONALS*Illinois Tournament Group
Asks for Season Report Of Fullerton Five

The Fullerton high school basketball team is being considered as a possible entry at the national scholastic championship tournament to be held in Chicago April 3-7, according to a letter received by Glenn Lewis, high school athletic director.

The tournament, which is conducted by the University of Illinois, is an invitational competition, the leading teams of the nation being selected by an athletic committee of Illinois. Last year twenty-eight teams battled for supremacy. This year thirty-two will be chosen to take part. From all indications Fullerton will be one of those chosen.

The letter received by Lewis asked that he send a report of the team's progress to the Illinois committee. It went on to say that this body considered the showing made by Fullerton last year was such as to justify the school's being entered and that should Fullerton do as well this season, its name would be included among the thirty-two. Inasmuch as Fullerton is showing up better this year than last it is thought the formal invitation will be forthcoming.

"Our acceptance of the invitation to compete for the national championship will be wholly with the school administration," Lewis said. "The date, however, comes during our spring vacation so that only one or two days of actual school work would be lost. No action will be taken, of course, until we have received the formal invitation."

GREB, TUNNEY MEET FOR TITLE TONIGHT

NEW YORK, Feb. 23.—Almost anything is liable to happen to the light heavyweight title when Gene Tunney meets Harry Greb again in the Garden tonight to attempt to regain the crown which he wore but four short months.

One thing is practically certain, that the coming battle will not be a repetition of the first. On May 23 of last year Greb took unto himself the championship by administering a decisive licking to Tunney in which the latter also covered himself with fame by the display of a brand of gameness that sticks long in a fan's memory.

Tonight the champion will meet a different man than he did at the time he himself was challenged. Tunney has improved greatly in the last year and seems to be stronger physically as well as wiser in the ways of the ring. Experience will come in especially handy in trying to land on Greb, one of the shiftest boxers in the ring.

On the other hand, Greb has shown no indication of late that his present condition is the same as at the time he won the title. But to a certain extent he cannot be blamed for this, as the illness of his wife, which caused the postponement of a former scheduled bout with Tunney has necessarily caused him some worry, and to train properly a man must be at his best mentally as well as physically.

FIGHT RESULTS

NEW YORK—Tommy Robson, Malden, Mass., won a hair line decision over Frankie Fleming, Staten Island, after 12 rounds of furious milling.

PORTLAND—Frank Farmer of Tacoma, heavyweight, blasted the hopes of Bob Getz of Akron, Ohio, when Farmer knocked Getz cold in the seventh round of their scheduled ten round fight.

S. A. BASEBALL MEN PLAY POMONA TEAM
IN PRACTICE FRAY

Coach "Spud" Morrison and his Poly baseball team were at Pomona this afternoon where the diamond cohorts of the local school were to have at it with the Orange Growers.

The Poly men turned the tables on Huntington Beach last Wednesday night, getting revenge for the defeat suffered at the hands of the beach nine in the first practice game of the season ten days ago.

Spencer was on the slab for Poly and the seashoreers had difficulty in solving his southpaw slants. "Barney" Le Bard was expected to do the twirling against Pomona.

ORANGE COUNTY GUN CLUB RE-ORGANIZED*Fifteen Members Will Hold Fourth Shoot Sunday
With Vernon Men

With arrangements completed whereby the club will hold a shoot every Sunday morning, and with some of the best known gun artists in this section already enrolled, the reorganization of the Orange County Gun club, formerly one of the best known organizations of its kind in Southern California, today was well under way.

Fifteen persons have entered the club to date and B. H. Christlieb, secretary, believes that many others will be added in the near future. The club is open to persons in Orange county, officials of the organizations, however, reserving the right to reject any admission requests.

"The club is open only to true sportsmen," Christlieb said, "and we reserve the right to pay back the initial fee to persons whom we feel do not meet that requirement."

Members will hold their fourth shoot since the reorganization next Sunday morning, beginning at 9 o'clock. The club grounds are at Brookhurst station, two miles west of Anaheim and one-quarter mile north of Center street.

According to Christlieb a squad of from ten to fifteen shooters from the Vernon Gun club will meet the Orange County club every fourth Sunday.

Members of the Orange County club, which is registered in the American Trap Shooters' association, are B. H. Christlieb, Norton Hatfield, Guzman Hoyne, Morris Martinet, Evan Miller, Felix Stein, Frank Miller, Albert Miller, Albert Kadelbach, William Kroeger, Ronald Kroeger, Earl Schrott, Louis Schrott and Herman Algeyer.

DOG TEAMS NEAR END OF WILDERNESS RACE

THE PAS, Manitoba, Feb. 23.—On the home stretch of the killing 220 mile run through Hudson's Bay wilderness, men and dogs neared The Pas early today. The finish was expected shortly after noon.

Record breaking time for the course was in prospect.

At last reports Sam Pranteau, Indian musher from Grand Rapids, on Lake Winnipeg, was leading. He was closely trailed by Cook, Russell, Grayson, Winterton and Campbell.

Stabback returned to The Pas a few hours after the start at 11 a. m. yesterday, turning back after a few miles.

PASTOR IS CALLED
PLACENTIA, Feb. 23.—At a meeting of the church members, held immediately after the morning church service at the Presbyterian church Sunday The church called Rev. G. A. Manshardt for one year. Rev. Manshardt left this week for Washington, Ill., and will bring his family back with him to begin his duties here by March 25. He has been supplying the pulpit for the past two Sundays.

BIG LEAGUE STARS
DESPITE EYESIGHT

Left to Right—George Toporcer, Lee Meadows

You might term these athletes the "Spectacle twins."

Anyway, they are the only major leaguers who wear glasses.

George Toporcer of the St. Louis Cardinals and Lee Meadows of the Phillies.

Major league scouts tell us that the vision must be perfect in measuring the pattern. They will overlook a weak arm, dumb base running and other defects, but there must be the clear, perfect eyesight to pass the test for the big league.

Yet here are two who have been afflicted with weak eyes since childhood and are getting along very well in the National League.

Toporcer, in playing more than 100 games last season, had a batting average of .323. He socked 25 doubles, six triples and three home runs.

Dave Bancroft, Jimmy Johnston, Hiram Myers, Tom Griffith, Bub Hargrave, Jack Smith, Cyrus Williams, Milt Stock, Rabbit Maranville, Jacques Fournier, Charley Grimm, George Burns, Ivey Wingo and many others of renown, were below Toporcer in batting.

And it might be mentioned that Lee Meadows turned in an average of .313 as a fence-buster, aside from his well-known ability as a pitcher.

The success of Meadows and Toporcer has proven that even defective eyesight is no bar to making the grade in the majors if the old determination is there.

It is also of interest that both of these players should be developed by the St. Louis Nationals.

Miss Miriam Conrad, of Reading, Pa., and a graduate of Oberlin College, has been appointed assistant pastor in a large Philadelphia church.

H. B. TRACK SQUAD LOSES TO LINCOLN

Coach Ray Walker's Huntington Beach high school track team is headed for another state championship and perhaps the national interscholastic title.

That was the belief at the beach city today following the Huntington Beach-Lincoln high school track meet at Los Angeles yesterday which Lincoln won 65 to 48.

Despite the defeat the Orange county team set up records that sport followers figure will entitle them to consideration in the big meets where firsts in a few events virtually mean championships.

Of the Huntington Beach total of 48 points, Charlie Bickmore, Ross Nichols and Milton Nash were responsible for 45 digits. Hoxsie made the other three markers when he finished second in the half mile.

Nash won the 100 yard dash in 10:35 seconds, the 440 in 55 seconds and the broad jump with a leap of 20 feet 7 inches.

Bickmore took second in the high hurdles, won the pole vault, took second in the shot put and third in the high jump.

Nichols won the high and low hurdles, grabbed a second in the pole vault, third in the broad jump and tied for first in the high jump.

BALL BITS

Coach Orion Neff and eight of his hoop throwers were this afternoon snoozing the breeze at San Diego.

The local basketball quintet will meet Coach John Perry's Hilltoppers at the Y. M. C. A. court at 7:30 o'clock there tonight. It will be the concluding melee of the year for the Santa Ana men who will check in their suits Monday and report for work in other sports.

While the game means little to Santa Ana as far as standing is concerned, it is of vast importance to the Southern five.

If San Diego conquers Neff's crew it will be permitted to enter the semi-finals for the Southern California championship.

In view of the fact that San Diego already has taken the measure of both Anaheim and Whittier, two teams that trampled the locals, it is hardly possible that Santa Ana will be able to seriously endanger the San Diego title standing.

Fitzpatrick, Williams, Galindo and Driver, all of whom played with the San Diego football team against the locals last fall, are members of the border city cage outfit.

Bill Luck, forward, closed the Poly court season as high point man.

The scorebook for the season shows Luck rolled up fifty-seven points in nine games. "Beano" Golden was second, with thirty-two digits. His record is worthy of attention, as he played at guard throughout the season and got into two games for only a few minutes.

Ed Linsenbard ranked third with twenty-eight points Captain Bowe, forward, was fourth with eleven points. Smith recorded five, and Anderson four.

Anderson, the tall center, provided the chief Santa Ana sensations in the latter part of the season. He arrived here only about three weeks ago, but his work was so good that he couldn't be kept off the team.

Local sport followers figure that nothing will prevent Santa Ana from copping at least the county championship if not the Southern California gonfalon next year.

Every man on the first string squad will be back next season. With such men as Bowe, Smith and Luck at forwards, Anderson and Linsenbard at centers, and Middlebrook and Golden at guards the team looms as a contender in any league. Experience was all that the team lacked this year.

EIGHT COURT TEAMS

News From Orange County Towns

NEW TOWN TO BE FORMED NEAR SMELTZER

WINTERSBURG AND SMELTZER, Feb. 23.—The thirty acres belonging to W. G. Alford at the corner of the Huntington Beach and Smeltzer boulevards, was sold this week to C. F. Holt, of Garden Grove for $28,000, or approximately $566.66 per acre. This property adjoins on the south the thirty acres recently purchased by Holt from D. W. C. Dimock, where a tract office has been erected this week preparatory for subdividing. The prospective city is called "Aldrich," and is located directly across the boulevard from the 140-acre tract recently purchased from R. L. Draper by the Aldrich Land company, or Anaheim Sugar company, of which Mr. Holt is a member.

BUENA PARK

BUENA PARK, Feb. 23.—Rev. Kengott, superintendent of Congregational churches of Southern California, filled the pulpit here Sunday morning and gave a very interesting discourse.

The Boy Scouts held their regular meeting at the Community hall Tuesday evening. Clyde Ritter, scout master, is taking great interest in the boys. Troop No. 1, Buena Park, was the guest of Troop No. 1, Anaheim, Wednesday night.

Rev. Hilgenfeld and children made the trip to Camp Baldy Saturday to enjoy the snow. This was quite a novel trip for the small daughters, as it was their first time at snow-balling.

Mrs. W. P. Johnson of West Orange, has returned after a five weeks' stay with her daughter, Mrs. Thompson, of Los Angeles, while Mrs. Johnson was with her daughter. Mr. Thompson was in Arizona on business for the telephone company.

Sunday guests at the L. T. Wilsey home were Mr. and Mrs. D. R. Kilbourne and children of Cucamonga, Mr. and Mrs. M. Kennedy, Miss Katherine Scott and Mr. Laurie Gillette of Pomona.

Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Childers and son were Long Beach visitors Sunday.

Albert Hasson of Puente and Ray Hasson of Glendale, came down Tuesday to help Dr. Hasson celebrate his seventy-sixth birthday anniversary.

I. D. Jaynes has bought the filling station from J. E. Wright and will move it to one of his lots and remodel it into a bungalow.

Mr. and Mrs. Triplett of Brea, called on Mrs. Childers Tuesday.

Mrs. M. S. Berkey attended church Sunday at Fullerton. She has been confined to her home with the influenza for the past two months.

CORONA SERGEANT IS INJURED WHEN HE IS THROWN FROM CYCLE

FULLERTON, Feb. 23.—Sergeant Blackford of Corona was painfully injured late yesterday afternoon in Santa Ana canyon, when, mounted on a motorcycle, he collided with an automobile driven by E. L. Beckworth of Downey.

GARDEN GROVE WOMAN SURPRISED SATURDAY

GARDEN GROVE, Feb. 23.—Mrs. G. F. Crane was pleasantly surprised Saturday evening, when five of her children and their families came to help her celebrate her birthday a anniversary. The evening was enjoyed by music and readings after which birthday cake and other good things, brought by the guests, were served.

While there they all decided to motor to Riverside, Sunday and enjoy a picnic dinner in the park. Those present at both occasions were: Mr. and Mrs. Milo Harris and son, Richmond, and Mr. and Mrs. Louis Covell and little daughter, Martha Joyce of Long Beach, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Mott and son, Severne, and two daughters, Dorothy and Barbara May of Laguna Beach, Mr. and Mrs. Roy Crane, Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Crane and two daughters, Marguerite and Lillian, and son, George, Mrs. W. D. Reed and Mr. and Mrs. G. F. Crane of Garden Grove.

The Garden Grove Electric company opened in the F. M. Reefnyder building Saturday with G. G. Geren, who is well known in this community, as proprietor.

This firm will carry a complete line of batteries and electrical supplies and equipment, making a specialty of ignition work.

Mr. Geren has had a wide experience in this particular line of business for the past two years, being employed in the Bob White garage at Anaheim. He also conducted an electrical shop for several years in the east and for a number of years was connected with the Reed Ignition works at Santa Ana.

Mrs. M. J. Vaughn and son, Harry, and daughter, Agnes, and Miss Maflida Rice of Los Angeles spent Monday at the W. M. Kesley home.

TEACHER HONORED

PLACENTIA, Feb. 23.—Mrs. A. E. Rogers was a guest in Fullerton at a four-course luncheon in honor of Mrs. Ella King, teacher of the Loyd Daughters class, of the Christian church, whose members were also guests at the luncheon, which was given by Mrs. Dale King. The King home was prettily decorated with yellow tulips, the same color being carried out in the favors.

Mrs. Ella King was presented with a beautiful silk parasol by the members of her class.

ORGANIZE CHORAL SOCIETY

ANAHEIM, Feb. 23.—A Community Choral society was recently organized in Anaheim by the local Community Service organization. Louis Danz is the conductor. At its first rehearsal an address was given by Alexander Stewart. He in turn introduced Mme. Genevra Johnstone Bishop, the oratorio singer, who gave a brief talk.

OUTFALL SEWER CONTRACT LET BY CITIES

ANAHEIM, Feb. 23.—Contracts approximating $60,000 were awarded by the combined city councils of Fullerton, Santa Ana, Anaheim and Orange toward the completion of the great outfall sewer which will ultimately connect all of Orange county with the sea in one of the largest sewage lines in Southern California.

The executives of the four cities met this week in the council chambers at Anaheim for a general discussion of the outfall sewer and the opening of bids, the first being for 800 feet of line that will complete the connection between Santa Ana and the sea.

Contracts Are Awarded
This line, which will be of wrought iron, will be constructed by the Dettard and Cobham company of Los Angeles at a cost of $43,730. There was also awarded the contract for the construction of the treatment plant at a cost of $10,950, this latter going to Cox and Teget of Los Angeles. This will be erected on eleven and nine-tenths acres, to be purchased at a cost of $500 per acre, with the oil rights remaining with the original owners.

Require More Acreage
The project will require the purchase of about fifty more acres. This was also authorized by the councils, if the cost per acre does not exceed $500. In the event of a higher price Attorney Clyde Bishop of Santa Ana has been authorized to start condemnation proceedings to obtain the required land.

Other Places Apply
That the sewer line will assume larger proportions than was at first anticipated was evidenced last night when committees from Placentia and Yorba Linda asked that both of these cities be allowed to join the line. It was explained that before this could be accomplished it would be necessary for the cities to incorporate, or to form a sanitary district. This may result in the incorporation, an incident solution of a problem that has long confronted Placentia. It is believed that in Yorba Linda a sanitary district will be formed. In both cities the line, if authorized, would connect with the trench from Fullerton to Anaheim.

Of the larger of the cities of the county there is only left Brea and La Habra who are not yet negotiating to join for additional sewage facilities. It is believed, however, that with the rapid growth of Fullerton to the north, eventually an annexation program will be worked out so that Brea would be included in the Fullerton line.

AUXILIARY TO MEET

ANAHEIM, Feb. 23.—The American Legion auxiliary has decided to hold an all-day meeting once a month for the purpose of sewing quilts to make money and also to make clothing for the boys at Camp Kearny and their families. The first meeting will be held March 1 in the Legion club rooms. The women will serve luncheon to any person who wishes to assist in this work. A good attendance is expected to be present on that date.

ATTEND CONFERENCE

PLACENTIA, Feb. 23.—Those from here who attended the W. C. T. U. Christian Citizen conference held at the First Baptist church in Los Angeles on Wednesday were Miss Margaret Strain, Mrs. Sarah Scott, Mrs. Adelia Howerton and the president of the local union, Mrs. Lizzie Key, of Fullerton.

ORANGE IS GREATLY CHANGED SINCE 15 YEARS AGO DECLARED

ORANGE, Feb. 23.—Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Myers of Huntington, Pa., are visiting Mr. Myers' brother, I. H. Myers, and wife of East Maple avenue. Mr. Myers was here fifteen years ago and he now notices many improvements and great advancement in the town and vicinity.

Among Orange people attending the Iowa picnic in Los Angeles were Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Gilron, Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Baker, Mr. and Mrs. McKibben, Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Park and Mr. Baker, Mr. and Mrs. Chamberlain and Mrs. Zeller and Mr. and Mrs. G. W. Whittell.

SCHOOL DIRECTORS TO HURRY BUILDING

WINTERSBURG AND SMELTZER, Feb. 23.—Steps toward the selling of $30,000 school bonds, voted last Saturday by the Oceanview school district, are being taken by the trustees of the school as rapidly as possible, and it is hoped to have all things in readiness for the beginning of the remodeling and construction of an addition to the school building by the close of the school term.

A large auditorium and three class rooms are to be added to the school and a more modern heating system than that in present use will be installed.

LAGUNA BEACH

LAGUNA BEACH, Feb. 23.—The Laguna Beach unit of the Campfire Girls held a regular meeting at Mrs. Burkholder's residence on Riverside Drive, last Saturday afternoon. Mrs. Burkholder is the guardian of the camp. Charlotte Brown, Mary Isch, Doris Messinger, Alma Evans, Beatrice Allen, Julia Bingham, and Doris Goff are the members who attended the meeting.

Mr. and Mrs. Hickey spent Sunday in Laguna with Jack Fritz of the "Motor Inn" garage. They are on a tour through the United States which will take them from California south to Florida, up the Atlantic coast from there, back across the continent to Washington state and down to California to their home in Stockton. They expect to be gone about four months.

Mr. and Mrs. McElree of Los Angeles spent the weekend in Laguna with Mrs. McElree's mother, Mrs. Catherine A. Brooks.

Alfred Olson, who is occupying the Hart cottage on the Cliffs, has gone to Balboa and Huntington Beach for a few days.

Mr. and Mrs. Eris Jamison motored to Pasadena Saturday.

The warm weather of the last few days brought many people down to Laguna for over the weekend, almost every cottage being occupied. The shore was lined with cars Sunday, from Nigger Canyon to Salt Creek, their owners spending the day among the rocks and on the sands of the little beaches that lie between every rocky point along the coast, from Balboa to San Juan Capistrano.

Among those who spent the day here were Mr. and Mrs. Charles T. Grimm, their daughter and their niece from Ohio. They were the guests of the N. E. West's at their Boardwalk home.

Mr. and Mrs. Eugene S. Baker and their daughter and son-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. J. Howard Turner were also down for over Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. James Hyrding, Bruce Harding, Gordon Harding and a party of friends spent Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. J. S. Thurston.

Dr. and Mrs. Fuller drove over from their present home near Long Beach, for the day.

Mr. and Mrs. S. Ray Paison and their son of Newark, New Jersey, and Dr. Edward A. Hanna, were among Conway Griffith's guests on Sunday. Mr. Griffith himself went up Sunday evening with Edward Choat to spend a few days in Los Angeles with the P. E. Kingmans.

Phyllis Whittingham, of Pasadena, had a house party at her cottage, over the weekend.

Edward J. Campion from Asbury Park, N. J., accompanied by his wife and daughter, Paul Jordan, Mrs. Jordan and Gail Jordan of Norwalk, Josephine M. Scott, A. B. Ramsey, Mr. and Mrs. H. J. Harrison, from Los Angeles, Mr. and Mrs. W. S. Ingram, Miss Jean Ingram of Los Angeles and Mr. and Mrs. W. B. Palliser of Rochester, N. Y., stayed over Sunday at the Laguna Beach hotel.

BUSINESS SITE AT OLIVE HAS BEEN SOLD

ORANGE, Feb. 23.—Placing the Olive Investment company in position to carry out its domestic water improvement scheme, sale of the Watson property, recently purchased by the company, to a group of prominent Orange and Olive men was announced by K. V. Wolff, head of the investment concern.

The new owners are N. T. Edwards, L. A. Bortz and A. C. Fletcher. The consideration was not divulged, but is understood to run into high figures.

The Watson property, located in the heart of Olive, bounded by Santa Ana canyon boulevard, Villa Park road and Main street, consists of nearly six city lots.

Build Business Block.
The new owners will continue with plans for erection of a modern business block on the property, the same as originally planned by the investment company.

The structure will be of brick construction, single story, furnishing openings for five business establishments.

Old Landmark Razed.
An old building on the site, long a landmark at Olive, has been razed to give way to the new improvement. Late it has served as a restaurant. A number of frame dwellings and warehouses on the property are also being removed, with work progressing rapidly.

Grading and excavations for the new structure are expected to start the coming week, with pouring of concrete for the foundation following quickly.

According to Wolff, sale of the property will enable the investment company to proceed with a domestic water improvement plan to supply the increasing demands of the town.

A new well will be sunk and possible enlargement of the main line from the reservoir to the center of town is in sight, he stated.

OUTSIDE WOMEN ARE GUESTS OF HOSTESS AT CAPISTRANO CLUB

SAN JUAN CAPISTRANO, Feb. 23.—The Ladies' Social club met at the home of Mrs. L. W. Purinton on Tuesday, with only a few members absent. Mrs. O. Gilbert of Tustin and Mrs. Ward were guests of Mrs. Purinton.

Mrs. F. Cason and Mrs. H. S. Barnes visited Mrs. Charles Phifer of Pasadena Wednesday.

Mrs. Maud Swarthout and Mr. and Mrs. Willard Swarthout of Santa Ana were visitors in Capistrano Wednesday.

WOMAN'S CIVIC CLUB WILL MEET TONIGHT

GARDEN GROVE, Feb. 23.—The regular evening meeting of the Woman's Civic club, which was postponed from last Friday evening, will be held in the Y. M. C. A. building Friday evening, February 23, at 8 o'clock.

The program has been arranged by the dramatic section, who promises a very novel entertainment. One of the features will be eight girls from the Katella school, who will sing and do the pretty minuet in colonial costume.

COLONIAL CLUB AT CLUB
PLACENTIA, Feb. 23.—It was Colonial day at the Round Table club on Wednesday and many of the ladies came in colonial costume, looking very striking and beautiful in their powdered hair and Marsha Washington dress. A play, "Lochnagar," was put on by a number of the members, their dress and their acting caused a great deal of merriment. There was a group of songs by out-of-town talent and a minuet by two high school girls, who were also dressed in colonial costume.

It was decided to help Miss Mackey in her Mexican work. Refreshments were served by the hostesses at the close of an interesting afternoon.

TAKEN TO HOSPITAL

PLACENTIA, Feb. 23.—Clinton Baldwin, assistant gardener at the grammar school, who has been ill for the past week at his home on Madison avenue, was taken to the Anaheim hospital Tuesday morning.

HEALTH TALK NO. 17
By J. G. Kelly, D. C.

The human body is a machine—more complex in its make-up, more perfect in its workings, than any machine ever devised by man. Give it the materials it needs—food, water and air—and the intelligent force resident within will use these materials for the making of every thing the body needs.

If this intelligent force is not obstructed in its passage over the nerves it will maintain every activity in the body perfectly.

But let some mechanical obstruction lessen the current passing over the nerves, so that even one organ fails to receive the power it needs, and Nature will at once notify you by many signs that something is wrong with the human machinery. It is only by pain, headache, weakness, dizziness, nausea, and other distressing sensations that Nature can warn you, and so induce you to take the steps that will return you to health.

As a Chiropractor, I am trained to find any obstruction to the flow of vital energy over the nerves, and to remove this obstruction by spinal adjustments, thus permitting NATURE to restore you to health. Consultation and examination free. Investigation will convince the most skeptical.

MOTHER WINS RIGHT TO KEEP HER CHILD

NEW YORK, Feb. 23.—The natural right of a mother to the ownership of her baby, even if the baby be born out of wedlock, takes precedence over all the laws of man. Justice Martin ruled in awarding to Maria Louise Baco her daughter, Marie Louise, who had been claimed and held by Prof. Karl Heidemann, professor of languages at Columbia university, father of the child, and his wife.

For nearly three years the battle for the child had been waged in many courts, and the mother at last won her fight against the contention of Dr. Heidemann that she was unfit, because of a physical malady, to properly rear the baby.

It is a strange story from beginning to end, the story of Miss Baco's baby and her fight to keep it. Coming to this country from Porto Rico, Miss Baco became the chum of Dr. Heidemann's wife. She studied typewriting at the Heidemann home. During one of the lessons the doctor complained that his wife had given him no children. Miss Baco who had been unhappily married in Porto Rico and had lost a child by death, said she yearned for motherhood.

Shortly after the baby was born Miss Baco told Mrs. Heidemann that Dr. Heidemann was the father of the child. Mrs. Heidemann forgave him. The Heidemanns took possession of the child and then began the three-year-battle for the baby, which ended in Justice Martin's decision today that mother love is supreme.

Is Green No More

"My experience with your medicine has been wonderful. My stomach and liver trouble of five years' standing took on a new form two years ago when I took on an olive green complexion. I spent $1,200 with doctors and specialists only to prove that I was still as green as ever. A friend advised me to take Mayr's Wonderful Remedy, and I am green no more. My stomach and liver trouble has all disappeared." It is a simple, harmless preparation that removes the thick mucus from the intestinal tract and allays the inflammation which causes practically all stomach, liver and intestinal ailments, including appendicitis. ## S. A. MEN SEEK TO LAND 1924 Y. GATHERING

Firmly determined to bring the 1924 State convention of the S. A. Y. to Santa Ana, delegates of the S. A. Y. left here today to attend the three-day State "Y" convention at Santa Barbara. The convention opens today and closes Sunday.

Thousands of delegates from all over California were gathering at Santa Barbara today. It was reported, and to these thousands J. P. Baumgartner will present the invitation of the Santa Ana Chamber of Commerce to hold their convention here next year.

"Santa Ana invites you," Mr. Baumgartner was to tell them, "because it is an ideal convention city. It is a growing city. It is growing faster than any other city of its class in Southern California. Its record of prosperity knows no periods of business depression."

So by personal contact was Santa Ana to be advertised to all California.

Colonel S. H. Finley, president of the S. A. Y., accompanied by numerous Santa Ana business men, including A. J. Crookshank, O. H. Barr, H. H. Lewis, and H. H. Lake of Garden Grove, were to leave here early today for the convention.

County "Y" men who were to attend included R. C. Smedley, building secretary, S. A. Y.; George Chessum, Orange county secretary; M. E. Beebe, Anaheim, and Chonk Kiong, Hawaiian member of the Fullerton "Y."

The convention program was announced to open this afternoon at 4:15 o'clock with an opening meeting by Frank W. Ober, former editor of the Associated Men's, official publication of the National Y. M. C. A.

The convention banquet will be held this evening at the Arlington hotel, with Judge B. F. Bledsoe as toastmaster, the program announced.

Business sessions are planned to begin promptly at 9 a. m. tomorrow. A fellowship meeting has been announced for Sunday morning, followed by a men's mass meeting in the afternoon, bringing the convention to a close.

HUGE WESTERN COAL OUTPUT PREDICTED

WASHINGTON, Feb. 23.—Continuation of the present policy of requiring the mining of a minimum amount of coal at each operation on leased government lands in twelve western states, taken into account with the production of mines now operating on private lands, promises to result in a total annual coal mine capacity in that region of 80,000,000 tons within two years, declares Director H. Foster Bain of the United States bureau of mines, in a memorandum submitted to the United States Coal commission. As maximum wartime market for coal from these states was 46,600,000 tons per year, the large production indicated seems certain to bring about the same loss of capital, and the same distress among miners in the western coal mining industry that was so marked a feature of 1921 in the coal industry in the East and the Middle West.

"The general leasing law of February 25, 1920, is mandatory so far as requiring the secretary of the interior to divide the land into leasing blocks is concerned, but it apparently permits his discretion as to when and by what general method leases shall be granted," states Director Bain.

"In practice, coal leases thus far have been given to any qualified applicant who took the necessary steps and gave the required guarantees, and that, doubtless, is what public opinion has expected. The department cannot, however, without violation of the plain intent of the law, grant leases without setting up requirements as to minimum production per annum. It was clearly not the intent of congress that leases should be granted to tie up land for long periods for speculative purposes. So each lease granted must require the mining of a minimum amount of coal per year and the giving of an effective bond for performance. The results that flow from this seem to have been overlooked by the lessees and others. If the department should refuse to grant any more coal leases in the region indicated until demand was with in some reasonable percentage of proposed output, there would doubtless be severe criticism. The public must soon in its own interest take more thought as to such conditions and be prepared to sustain remedial legislation. There is need and room here for real conservation."

The states affected by the coal leasing program are California, Colorado, Idaho, Montana, Nebraska, New Mexico, North Dakota, Oregon, South Dakota, Utah, Washington and Wyoming. Coal is also being produced to a limited extent in Alaska, but under the provision of separate legislation.

PICKS FOR STUDENTS

SAN FRANCISCO, Feb. 23.—Seven thousand of the ten thousand under-graduate students of the University of California should be attached to pickhandles or frying pans," Professor G. Montgomery, of the English department of the university declared. He was elaborating his charges that too many young people go to college because "it is the proper thing to do." He expressed a belief that all concerned would be better off if this 70 per cent took to some form of hard work.

BATTLESHIP OREGON IS WANTED BY STATE

SALEM, Ore., Feb. 23.—The famous battleship Oregon, that doughty old sea dog that broke all records going around the horn during the Spanish-American War, and whose flashing guns helped arrest the flight of Admiral Cervera's fleet at the battle of Santiago, may come home to Oregon and the Willamette River to spend her final days as a museum, a reminder of the days which, for her, have gone forever. The Oregon Legislature has before it an appropriation bill which would guarantee upkeep for the vessel, which is the only condition which the United States government makes in giving the vessel to the state. A small fee will be charged to view the vessel, according to plans which are being talked here in anticipation of approval by the legislature of the appropriation requested.

LIONS HEAR TALK BY WOMAN PASTOR

Members of the Lions club here were today recalling many points in the fine address delivered at the club meeting at noon yesterday by the Rev. Lucy Woodford, pastor of the Congregational church at Villa Park. The Rev. Mrs. Woodford was the first woman speaker ever to address the club. In a general way her theme was on the influence on life that early associations have on the individual and pointed to the fact that the life of a child is moulded largely by the life of a mother, father, brother, sister, or close friend.

Touching upon the life of George Washington, she attributed his ideals and successes to the influence of his brother, Laurence. She declared that it was time that consideration were being given to a change in the present-day life, and that parents should give more attention to home conditions for the development of the child.

C. S. Crookshank was chairman of the program committee. It was through his influence that the speaker was secured.

Vocal selections were given by Mrs. H. M. Sammis, accompanied by Miss Ruth Armstrong, and Carl Rolles, who recently settled on a ranch near Orange, and who contemplated opening a studio in Santa Ana for teaching vocal and instrumental music. He formerly was with a prominent opera company.

The craft talk was by Lyle "Andy" Anderson, who is with the local branch of the Cash Register company. The speaker discussed briefly the origin of the cash register and pointed out developments that have perfected the register of today.

COUNTIES WILL HAVE QUEEN FOR A DAY

LOS ANGELES, Feb. 23.—Seven counties of Southern California and the lower portion of the San Joaquin valley, extending as far north as Fresno, will be given an opportunity to select a queen to reign for a day which will be set apart and advertised as her day at the first annual Historical Revue and Motion Picture Exposition to be given in Exposition park here next summer in commemoration of the hundredth anniversary of the enunciation of the Monroe doctrine.

The seven counties asked to select from among their fairest daughters, queens to preside at the exposition on the days given over to the feasting of each representative county, are: San Diego, Imperial, San Bernardino, Riverside, Orange, Ventura and Santa Barbara. The lower portion of the San Joaquin valley is the eighth district from which a queen is to be chosen to preside at the celebration on the day given over to that district.

The keenest competition is expected for, in addition to the honor of being selected as queen, a cash prize of $200 will be given each of the eight girls. Prizes of $100 and $50 will also be given to the girls who are second and third in each district. Each queen may give a ball in honor of the district she represents. She will also be eligible for the grand prize of $500, competition for which is open to the winners. The lucky girl, however, will not be given the district prize.

The queen of the premiere, or formal opening of the revue and exposition, will be chosen from within the motion picture industry, since that industry is sponsoring the entire celebration. Those of the film industry who have subscribed for patron certificates will select the most popular motion picture star from among their numbers.

Plans are now on foot for the operation of from three to seven theater-continental trains to bring theater owners from all parts of the United States. In addition, there will be a special train running from Washington to Los Angeles, and return, through many of the principal cities of the United States, bringing to the premier the presidential party, Latin-American diplomats, and the United States Marine band. The event is expected to attract the greatest gathering of famous men and women that Southern California has ever seen.

Practical Notes on the S. S. Lesson

Prepared for The Register by Cal. Ogburn

Lesson for Feb. 25. Luke 19:11-27. THE PARABLE OF THE POUNDS.

"He called ten servants of his, and gave them ten pounds, and said unto them, Trade ye herewith till I come."—v. 13. It is a common saying, and less than half the truth, and therefore misleading, that, "It takes money to make money." It takes nine parts of ability plus one part of money to make money, and ability is a composite of natural and acquired "money-sense"—which is one kind of common-sense. Some of the greatest financiers started life with scarcely a dollar. Call the roll of this nobleman in the parable gave to each of ten servants of his a mina. It wasn't a large sum of money, and neither was it inconsiderable. A mina was one hundred drachmae or denarii, and a denarius—worth about seventeen cents—was the price of a day's labor—Matt. 20:2. If you had, as a gift or a loan, a sum of money equal to what the average man would earn working one hundred days, what would you do with it? It would do very well for a "starter."

Would you invest it as a first payment in first-class real estate? Buy stock or shares in "The Get-Rich-Quicksand Company"? Treat "Pollyanna" to a "perfectly-lovely, player-piano-at-so-much-per"? Or lay off and spend the money having a good time? What you do with the price of a hundred days' labor very probably determines what you would do with a much larger sum. Think it over.

"What they had gained by trading"—v. 15. No matter what a man does, there is both gain and loss as the result. When we think of a man eminently successful in the acquisition of wealth that may be the limit of our thoughts concerning him. He has gained much by trading, and therefore is the object of our envy. We wish to be in his place, or as fortunate as he. But how much did he lose by trading?"

Had he lost out of his life all that responded to the nobler impulses of his soul, and become a mere machine for making money? Agassiz, the eminent naturalist, is accredited with having said, "I have no time to make money." Responding to the desire to ac-

BRITISH WILL FIGHT JAZZ INFLUX

LONDON, Feb. 23.—Another Yankee invasion is alarming London, this time of jazz musicians. Restaurants and hotels are importing Americans, because, they say, they are superior. But English musicians are up in arms, declaring that the Americans are putting perfectly good native talent out of a job at a time of widespread unemployment.

These musicians get as much as £40 a week. Nominally the government bars foreign musicians unless they are urgently required by employers, but the Americans are evading the rules, it is charged.

An invitation is arranged in England to a number of Americans to come to form an orchestra. The Americans summoned apply to the nearest British consul who, after inquiry, finding they are demanded, lets them pass. Many managers take on Americans because the United States is the home of jazz, the theory being that its citizens must be more familiar with their own peculiar contribution to the world's art. However, this is denied by the leader of a large London dance orchestra, who says that not even second rate musicians are now unemployed in England. He asserts that never has there been such a demand for musicians as at present. But he explains why

American musicians are being imported:

"Syncopated music, which is rapidly increasing in vogue with the British public, originated in its most modern form in the United States. All the most novel compositions, including highly symphonized syncopation, originate in the United States, and mechanical perfections and inventions of various instruments all have originated there. It is surprising, therefore, that despite the keen competition to obtain their services in America, where the vogue is even greater than here, and despite the financial disadvantages, which are very considerable, and the risks, which are very great, those on this side responsible for public entertainment finding a demand for these bands, had to obtain some leaders from America."

"To refer to the American schools of symphonized and syncopated music as 'transatlantic nurseries' or 'organized noise' is merely silly. If we had such schools for training English musicians in syncopated music, English musicians could have had the work and the wages. The musician of this class is worth exactly what he can get for drawing the public, as in any other form of the entertainment business."

ORANGE

ORANGE, Feb. 23.—Mrs. F. V. Pruitt is recovering rapidly from her recent accident in Santa Ana two weeks ago when she was knocked to the pavement by a passing auto and the muscles of her right limb were bruised and ligaments torn. She expects to be able to walk again soon.

L. T. Andrus of Des Moines, Iowa, was in Orange calling on old friends this week. He was formerly a resident of Orange and an employee at the Ebley and Grote Store, but is now an architectural engineer with Pease, Robinson and Sprague of Des Moines.

Fletcher Galloway of Merced is in Orange visiting at the home of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. E. B. Galloway of North Pinyon street. He came to attend the wedding of his sister, Miss Mary Ruth Galloway, to Clarence Skiles.

Mr. and Mrs. G. W. Lieve were guests this week at the F. V. Pruitt home. They were formerly friends of the Pruitts back in Indiana, and coming now from Ohio have been for a short time in Santa Ana and think of locating here.

The Nelson Stafford family who have been residing on North Orange street have sold their home and are now located in Santa Ana where Mr. Stafford is in business.

Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Winbiger of Santa Ana will come Saturday night to live for a time with their grandmother, Mrs. Elizabeth Mills of 230 South Orange street.

Mrs. Eunice C. Horton, who has been with her sister, Mrs. Elizabeth Mills, leaves Saturday for a visit with her daughter, Mrs. Arthur Long of Turlock.

Mrs. Lessie Rowley of Los Angeles arrived last evening for a visit with her son, Joe Rowley, and family, and other relatives here.

A. Dittmer was a Los Angeles business visitor this week.

GERMAN VAUDEVILLE BANNED IN FRANCE

PARIS, Feb. 23.—A decision by the France Vaudeville Artists' union, boycotting German acts for four years, is causing a veritable furor to lead to similar decisions by other theatrical organizations.

Performers in sixty acts which had been booked for Paris theaters next week have received fare back to the German frontier, with a curt suggestion not to try to get further bookings until they can get a passport other than German.

The concert stage, according to latest reports, is to be "purged" next, which will mean the cancellation of several spring programs. The Paris opera is not affected.

SCARAMOUCHE

Andre-Louis stepped back. His eyes gleamed a moment; the next they were smiling up into the face of his tall enemy.

"No better than the others, after all! Well, well! Remark I beg you, how history repeats itself—with certain differences. Because poor Vilmorin could not bear a village with which you goaded him, he struck you. Because you cannot bear an equally vile truth which I have uttered, you strike me. But always is the villainous yours. And now as then for the striker there is—He broke off. "But there, I will meet you if you desire it, monsieur."

"What else do you suppose that I desire?" he asked.

Andre-Louis turned to his friends and sighed. "So that I am to go another jaunt to the Bois. Isaac, perhaps you will kindly have a word with one of these friends of M. le Marquis, and arrange for nine o'clock tomorrow, as usual."

Monday morning at a quarter past eight, as with Le Chapelier, Andre-Louis was rising from table to set out for the Bois, his housekeeper startled him by announcing Mademoiselle de Kercaduc.

He looked at his watch. Although his cabriolet was already at the door he had a few minutes to spare. He excused himself from Le Chapelier, and went briskly out to the ante-room.

She advanced to meet him, her manner eager, almost feverish. "I will not accept ignorance of why you have come," he said quickly, to make short work. "But time presses, and I warn you that only the most solid of reasons can be worth stating."

"But . . . Oh, Andre, this meeting must take place!" She came close up to him, to set her hands upon his shoulders, and stood so, her face within a foot of his own. "You know, of course, of some good reason why it should not?" said he.

"You may be killed," she answered him, and her eyes dilated as she spoke. "It was far from anything that he had expected that for a moment he could only stare at her. Then he thought he had understood. He laughed as he removed her hands from his shoulders, and stepped back. This was a shallow device, childish and unworthy in her."

"Come, now," said he. "There is too much between La Tour d'Azyr and me. There is an oath I swore on the dead hand of Philippe de Vilmorin. I could never have hoped that God would afford me so great an opportunity of keeping it."

"You have not kept it yet!" she warned him. "He smiled at her. 'True!' he said. 'But nine o'clock will soon be here. Tell me,' he asked her suddenly, 'why did you not carry this request of yours to M. de La Tour d'Azyr?'"

"I did," she answered him and flushed as she remembered her yesterday's rejection. He interpreted the flush quite otherwise. "And he?" he asked.

"M. de La Tour d'Azyr's obligations . . . she was beginning; then she broke off to answer shortly: 'Oh, he refused.'"

Le Chapelier put his head in at the door. "Forgive the intrusion. But we shall be late, Andre, unless you . . . Coming," Andre answered him. "If you will wait my return, Alaine, you will be more deeply."

She did not answer him. She was numb. He took her silence for assent, and, bowing, left her.

Standing there, half-frenzied by her helplessness, she caught again a sound of vehicles and hoofs on the cobble of the street below. A carriage was approaching. "She sped to the door of the ante-room, and pulling it wide stood breathlessly to listen. It was a woman's voice asking in urgent tones for M. Andre-Louis—a voice at first vaguely familiar, then clearly recognized, the voice of Mme. de Plougastel.

Excited, she ran to the head of the narrow staircase in time to hear Mme. de Plougastel exclaim in agitation: "He has gone already! Oh, but how long since? Which way did he take?"

Alaine ran down that steep staircase, calling: "Madame! Madame!" The portly, comely housekeeper drew aside, and the two ladies faced each other at that threshold. Mme. de Plougastel looked white and haggard, a nameless dread staring from her eyes.

"The assignation is for nine o'clock in the Bois de Boulogne," Alaine informed her. "Could we follow? Could we prevail if we did?"

"In the Bois!" Madame was flung into a frenzy. "The Bois is nearly half as large as Paris." But she swept breathlessly on. "Come on, Alaine, get in, get in!" Then to her coachman, "To the Bois de Boulogne," she commanded, "as fast as you can drive. There are ten pistoles for you if we are in time. Whip up, man!"

For a long moment, in speechless horror, both women stared at him, until, perceiving them, blank surprise invaded his stern face. In that moment, with a long shuddering sigh Alaine sank swooning to the carriage floor behind Mme. de Plougastel.

CHAPTER IX. By fast driving Andre-Louis had reached the ground some minutes ahead of time. There he found M. de La Tour d'Azyr already awaiting him, supported by a M. d'Ormesson, a swarthy young gentleman in the blue uniform of a captain in the Gardes du Corps.

Their preparations were made quickly and in silence, yet without undue haste or other sign of nervousness on either side. "Allez, messieurs!"

The slender, wickedly delicate blades clashed together, and after a momentary glaze were whirling, swift and bright as lightning, and almost as impossible to follow with the eye. The Marquis led the attack, impetuously and vigorously, and almost at once Andre-Louis realized that he had to deal with an opponent of very different mettle from those successive duellists of last week, not excluding La Motte-Rouan.

As with breaking sweep Andre-Louis parried the heavy lunge in which that first series of passes culminated, he actually laughed—gleefully, after the fashion of a boy at a sport he loves.

They settled down again; and again—on the principle this time that the soundest defense is in attack—it was the Marquis who made the game. And Andre-Louis allowed him to do so, desired him to do so; desired him to spend himself and that magnificent speed of his against the greater speed that for nearly two years he given the master. With a beautiful, easy pressure of forte on foible Andre-Louis kept himself completely covered in that second bout, which once more culminated in a lunge.

Expecting it now, Andre-Louis parried no more than a deft, fleeting touch. At the same moment he stepped suddenly forward, right within the other's guard, thus placing his man so completely at his mercy that, as if fascinated, the Marquis did no, even attempt to recover himself.

This time Andre-Louis did not laugh. He just smiled into the dilating eyes of M. de La Tour d'Azyr, and made no shift to use his advantage. "Come, come, monsieur!" he bade him sharply. "Am I to run my blade through an uncovered man?" Deliberately he fell back, whilst his shaken opponent recovered himself at last.

COLLEGE WOMEN NOT ANXIOUS FOR CHILDREN

NEW YORK, Feb. 23.—Is college education of women a factor in the declining birth rate?

Are the children of native American stock which has had educational advantages, becoming an insignificant minority in the population?

Partial answers to these questions are to be found in a report in the American Journal of Sociology. The material is taken from a study made by members of the class in statistics at Mount Holyoke college under the direction of Professor Amy Hewes, head of the department of economics.

The figures tend to show that the college education of parents is associated with smaller families, but also with a better chance of survival for the children, and that the college education of the mother is a more influential factor in this connection than the college education of the father.

Much Data Gathered. These conclusions are based on data gathered from the families of 670 students and from their parents' families. The information furnished includes the number of children born and surviving, the nativity of the parents, and college training of the parents in both generations.

In the parents' generation the average number of children in the family was five, but in the students' generation the average number was three. This is significant shrinkage for the short span of one generation, but the figures in this form give no proof that the sharp drop in the size of the family is characteristic of college families only. The next step was, therefore, the comparison of the number of children born to college trained parents with the number of children born in families which had not felt the influence of higher education. So small a proportion of the families in either generation (355 in all, or less than one-fifth) had gone to college that the figures are inclusive; but as they stand they indicate that college education for the parents means smaller families than they would otherwise have and that it is the college education of the mother which is the more important in keeping down the size of the family.

Comparative Figures. The average number of children born in families in which neither parent had a college education was 4.4; in cases where the father had a college education but the mother had not, the average number of children was 3.7; where the mother alone had gone to college the average, the lowest of all was 3.1; and where both parents were college trained, the average number of children born to them was 3.6.

The number of children born, however, is only a partial indication of the effect of college training on the ultimate size of the family, for the proportion of children who survive is a figure which is demanded by modern social analysis. Here again the results are not conclusive, but the indication is that the children of college parents have the better chance of surviving, and that it is in the families in which the mother is a college woman that the proportion of children who survive is greatest.

In the students' generation 90 per cent of the children of college parents were still living, but only 85.9 per cent of the children of non-college parents were living. Where the mother alone has gone to college the figure was close to the percentage for both parents (91.7 per cent). In the parents' generation the percentage of survival for the children was 68.3 in the families where both parents were college trained and 66.9 where neither had gone to college. In cases where the mother had attended the college the percentage of children surviving was highest of all—77 per cent.

Three Children Average. Other tables show the difference in birth and survival among families of foreign parentage, mixed parentage and native parentage. The average number of children born in the native families is smallest, three, but this tendency is not accompanied by a superior chance of survival. It is in the families of mixed parentage that the percentage of children surviving is largest only slightly. To be sure, but alike in the two generations. The foreign-born group has the largest average number of children, but the smallest percentage of survival.

The indication is that children of mixed parentage have greater vitality than the children of native stock, and that their chance of surviving is maintained by the introduction of American ideas of the proper care of children by the native-born mother in the one case or the native-born mother in the other. In all three groups the size of the family is diminishing at practically the same rate, judging by the figures for the two generations. It is not the native stock alone then, which is reproducing itself at a lower rate as the years pass.

Miss Mithan A. Tuta, of Bombay, India, has been admitted to the law practice of Great Britain, being the first woman from her country to be thus honored.

The junior girls' indoor baseball team today held the right to play the senior girls' squad for the Santa Ana high school inter-school championship following its 10 to 8 victory over the sophomores yesterday afternoon.

RATTLING CARS VIE FOR RACING HONORS

(By United Press Leased Wire) SAN DIEGO, Feb. 23.—Skeletons of a thousand automobiles of a decade ago rattled in envy in junk and bone yards today as news of yesterday's $50 claiming race of relic cars spread through the land.

Sierra Club Special, a nifty blue Stevens-Durreva of the vintage of 1890 galloped over the course at the startling rate of close to fifty miles an hour. But she was lucky to win the silver stein. Big Bertha, her gas tanks full of ether and picric acid was romping down the first hill far in the lead, when the rotor dropped out of her distributor and she stopped dead in her tracks. In a preliminary heat she had done the course in one minute ten seconds.

It was a thrilling spectacle, witnessed by close to 20,000 persons who cheered madly as the rattling buses cavorted over the dirt course.

Eddie Pullen, clad in a bright red hooded costume and driving Red Raven, committed a breach of A. A. A. ethics when he let loose about a million feathers for the cars behind to dodge. Eddie got beat handsly, at that.

Phillips, a speedy flivver that came in a glorious third in the third heat, was ably driven by Miss Florence Chambers the only woman driver in the race.

Magnor White, owner of Big Bertha, has purchased a new rotor and accepted the challenge of an amateur racer from Sacramento named Big Ben.

Bertha expects to have an easy time of it winning from the Ben youngster and is willing to abide by any racing rules with the single exception that she refuses to be driven backwards in the race.

WOULD CLASSIFY CITIZENS FOR LEADERSHIP

WASHINGTON, Feb. 22.—Examination and classification of American citizen in the United States to determine who are best fitted for governmental leadership, from the president down to the smallest of office boy, was proposed today in a national convention of the Institute of Government.

The proposition of this idea was Frank Exline, political economist and author of "A New Basis of Government," which advocates government by the fittest through a scientific merit system. This would be a governmental function something like the civil service commission, operating on the order of the personnel registration system used in the draft army during the war.

The Institute of Government itself proposes through a co-operative staff of experts in political economy and general sciences and professions, to act as a clearing house of expert information for the government and for organizations throughout the country.

"It will be the function of the Institute," according to Haviland R. Lund, its president, "to inculcate the idea of evaluating question of private and public policy upon the basis of merit rather than on the basis of partisanship and class interest."

The organization has for its purpose the combating of revolutionary and pacifist propaganda by spreading information and facts concerning all developments of public interest.

It has among its officers and advisors such men as Representative L. T. McFadden, chairman of the currency and banking committee of the house, who is treasurer; Dr. W. G. Hoke, director of development and general education of the advisory board division of the general staff of the war department, who is editor in chief, and John F. Tignor, commissioner of education of the interior department. Others are Judge Ben Lindsey, of the Denver juvenile court, and Dr. John Balch Blood, valuation analyst of the interstate commerce commission, who are advisors, and Dr. Sheppard I. Franz, of the government hospital for the insane at Georgetown university, a member of the institute faculty.

A correspondence course in American citizenship to be made available to every citizen is one of its projects.

At the beginning of the present year the smallest pension paid to mothers in any state for a single child was $10 a month and the highest $25.

the Board of Trustees of the City of Santa Ana offers for sale bonds issued upon the security of the unpaid assessments for the work done and improvement made as described in Resolution of Intention No. 536 and City on a portion of Spurgeon Street open public street therein.

The aggregate principal of the bonds is $40,000, represented by 10 bonds; nine (9) thereof in the denomination of $4,000 each, and one (1) bond in the denomination of $40,000 each, all of said bonds are dated the 10th day of February, 1923, payable in annual installments of $4,000 each, the first payment of interest to be on the 2nd day of January, 1924. The bonds are issued pursuant to the Improvement Bond Act of 1915.

If no satisfactory bids are received or the Board of Trustees determines that the bids received are not satisfactory as to price or responsibility of the bidder, the Board of Trustees reserves the right to reject all bids received, if any, and readvertise the bonds for sale, or deliver said bonds to the Contractor in satisfaction of the sum due him upon the assessment and warrant. No bonds will be sold for less than their par value. Bids will be opened at the hour of 7:30 o'clock p. m. of Monday, March 5th, 1923, at the City Hall, and bids may be filed with the clerk of said City up to that hour.

Dated February 14th, 1923. J. M. BACKS, County Clerk.

Get Your Bible Today
Now the big distribution starts, and every reader who presents three of the Bible Coupons as explained in the daily announcements, will come into immediate possession of the greatest of all great pieces of literature, The Bible—which is now being distributed by leading newspapers throughout the land. Choose either style, the large Red Letter volume illustrated herein, or the less elaborate Style B. Both styles complete, as to contents.

What Four Great Writers Say of the Bible
ITS WONDERFUL LITERARY AND MORAL VALUE

Macaulay Says: "If everything else in our language should perish, the Bible would alone suffice to show the whole extent of its beauty and power."
When Walter Scott Lay Dying, he said to his son-in-law: "Lockhart, read me something from the Book." Lockhart asked, "What book?" Scott replied: "Why do you ask? There is but one Book—the Bible!"
Coleridge Says: "Intense study of the Bible will keep any writer from being vulgar in point of style."

A PUZZLE A DAY

An inch-worm attempted to climb a tree trunk 30 feet high. After climbing three feet in an hour, it slipped back two feet. How many hours would it take the inch-worm to climb the trunk?

Yesterday's answer:

Within the convent's cloisters
Grew beds of tall chrysanthemum;
And there, at night, we pause
To hear the choir's saintly anthem hum.

The last line of the above stanza makes a suitable rhyme for "chrysanthemum."

EVENING SALUTATION

He who does not strive after something with eagerness, finds everything burdensome and odious.
—Lord Francis Bacon.

DUTIES OF A CITY MANAGER

The city manager is the executive officer of the city council. He is the one to whom the affairs of city are committed. He is held responsible for carrying out the policies of the council. He is therefore given large powers but is at all times under the council's direction the same as the superintendent of schools is under the authority of the board of education. The manager's prescribed duties usually include the following:

(1) In general, the city manager is charged with the enforcement of the laws and the city ordinances and carrying on the business of the city.

(2) In holding the city manager responsible for results, it is logical to clothe him with sufficient power to get the work properly done. He is therefore given authority to appoint and dismiss heads of departments. Department heads are usually given authority to appoint their own subordinates with the advice of the manager on the more important ones.

(3) He attends all meetings of the council except those at which his personal relations with the council are considered. He may take part in the discussions and make recommendations but has no vote.

(4) As the management of the city's finances is a most important factor in city government, the manager is required to prepare and present to the council an annual budget, including an estimate of receipts and suggested appropriations.

(5) He is charged with the duty of maintaining the city's rights in the operation of public service franchises.

(6) It is his duty to study all phases of city government and to make recommendations to the council of more efficient and economical methods of transacting the city's business.

THE ZONING ORDINANCE

Santa Ana has a zoning ordinance, but it is not looked upon as being the ordinance that is wanted by the authorities. That zoning is feasible and advisable, is admitted. There may be and always will be differences of opinions upon the terms and areas of zoning in this or any other city, but nevertheless the great majority of residents in this or almost any other city will look upon zoning as well worth while.

The ordinance passed a few weeks ago has provisions in it that are not generally desired. Some question as to its legality has been raised unofficially, but no court has ever declared it to be ineffective or illegal. In its abstracts of title one of the local title companies puts on a notation to the effect that the title company does not say whether the ordinance is legal. It is known, however, that the company considers it advisable for the city to rescind the present ordinance and pass a new ordinance drawn up to fit the needs that have developed here.

While we are discussing zoning, the following editorial, under the heading, "Zoning a Sign of Progress," will prove interesting. It was taken from the Stockton Record:

California has fourteen cities that are either operating under zoning ordinances or about to adopt them. They are Alameda, Berkeley, Coronado, Fresno, Long Beach, Los Angeles, Oakland, Palo Alto, Pasadena, Pomona, Sacramento, San Francisco, Santa Barbara and South Pasadena. This showing puts California second among the states in which zoning is practiced with 81 per cent of her urban population living in zoned territory. It places the state third in the number of cities zoned, which in comparison with the population of other states in the Union gives California a high rating as a progressive state. There are in all 15,000,000 people living in zoned cities, towns and villages in the United States.

All of the foregoing is a part of the report issued by the division of building and housing of the United States Department of Commerce. Stockton cannot long afford to remain outside the goodly company of progressive cities named above.

NEW INAUGURATION DATE

The Norris amendment to the United States Constitution has come somewhat unexpectedly, but is none the less welcome. The overwhelming vote of 63 to 6 cast in its favor by the senate probably represents the public attitude fairly enough. There is no question as to similar action by the house; it is only a question of whether a vote can be obtained before adjournment.

This amendment changes the time for inaugurating the President from March 4 to the third Monday in January following his election. It also provides that a congress shall meet on the first Monday in January after its election, instead of waiting until December. Both changes are desirable because the present arrangement is obviously out of harmony with the present conditions.

Transportation and communication have outrun the old system, making it possible for President and congress to get on the job far more quickly than they could a century ago. Likewise the increased speed of modern life and the spread of the democratic spirit have brought a demand that a new President and congress shall start functioning more quickly after election, so as to put the popular will into immediate effect. The amendment therefore is another step forward in responsive popular government, such as the founders of the Constitution themselves would doubtless approve if they could be consulted today.

It is by no means an unprecedented step, however. If this amendment is adopted, the federal government will merely be doing what nearly all the states do already.

Short as February is, it was long enough for the two biggest Americans to be born in.

STATES AFTER BAD LIQUOR

The fight against poison booze is gaining momentum. In very nearly every section of the country state legislatures are considering and passing bills covering one or more phases of the poison liquor and bootleg evils.

Oklahoma has made it murder to sell or give away liquor resulting in death and has made it a felony to own a still or make mash. A proposed bill in Iowa would make persons selling or giving away liquor that causes death subject to a charge of murder. Ohio would make the sale or gift of liquor causing death second degree murder and the manufacture of moonshine felonious. Indiana proposes fines and imprisonment for the sale or giving away of poison liquor. New York, Colorado, Massachusetts, Illinois, Nebraska, Missouri, Kansas and Wisconsin either have similar bills already before their legislatures or are agitating for such action.

It seems to be generally believed that if the bootlegger and his bad liquors are eliminated or greatly checked, full control of prohibition will be within reach. At any rate, this tendency to state action is a good sign, indicating general public readiness to co-operate with federal authorities in prohibition enforcement.

Build Better Homes

Fresno Republican.

Proverbs are dried thoughts. They usually require a soaking in the moisture of immediate fact to be usable, as guides to conduct.

Equally, our notions, whether proverbial in form or not, require an adjustment to present conditions to be practical.

Our thoughts about divorce are usually impractical. The generalization against divorce is a good generalization. It has comparatively little to do with the fact, until we get the wrong of divorce and the fact of unfitting family life together, for readjustment.

Arthur Capper, United States senator from Kansas, has a living thought on this subject in his current Washington letter to his weekly. He says:

"As a people, we are disturbed by our divorce statistics, and should be. They are much higher, I am told, than any other country on the globe, except one. Divorces granted in the United States exceed 112,000 a year. They are increasing steadily. But the number of broken homes must far exceed the number of legal separations."

Just as long as we regard the evil as being measured by the number of applications for divorce, we are talking about the evil after the evil is done. Just as long as we seek to prevent divorce by preventing the government from authorizing divorce, so long we are ignoring the evil.

Whenever a community, a church, a social agency of any sort, puts itself out to make better family life, more suitable husbands and wives, more considerate spouses, just so far it is preventing the disintegration of homes. The measure of the social sin is not in the divorce courts. It is in the laxity that leads to impermanent married life.

Open Fair On Sunday?

Riverside Press.

The directors of the Southern California fair are now going through the annual discussion on Sunday closing of the fair. The Press is going to venture the following brief contribution to the symposium. If Sunday at the fair is limited to the exhibits and the stock parade, then objections on the ground of desecration are not well founded. If, however, Sunday opening is to mean horse racing, vaudeville and wide open concessions, then the sentiment of the county is against it. The Press is confident that this states the case correctly; and the first thing therefore seems to be to define what the Sunday program is to be if the fair is open on that day. If the fair directors do not think it wise to limit the Sunday opening to the lines suggested above, then they are inviting serious trouble and discussion by planning on opening the gates at all on Sunday. Better close Saturday night than to face a degree of opposition that would interfere with the success and community support of the fair. The great majority of the people of the county are not for a "wide open" Sunday and that fact should be respected.

Women Better Educated

Long Beach Press.

"Womanhood of the United States is better educated than manhood." This rather startling assertion is made by Mrs. Deborah Knox Livingston, national and international director of citizenship for the Woman's Christian Temperance Union, who is making a speaking tour of California.

There is no questioning the fact that women have made remarkable strides, in this country, in educating themselves and also as educators. In truth, the educating of the youth of this land lies very largely with its women. There are far more women teachers than men teachers in public, private and parochial schools. Universities, colleges and high schools have great numbers of young women enrolled. In many institutions of learning the number of young women graduating exceeds the number of young men. And in tests as to mental alertness, young women excel.

It is a noteworthy fact that well-educated women are thoroughly educated. The virtue of thoroughness in learning is doubtless more common among women than among men.

Advancement of women in education is phenomenal. It is within the memory of persons yet living when women first were admitted to institutions of higher learning in this country. As the emancipation of the sex has proceeded, women have been quick and eager to avail themselves of the educational facilities offered them. It may be verily true, as this good lady asserts, that "womanhood of the United States is better educated than manhood." At least, it raises an interesting question for discussion.

Living Outdoors a Joy

Pasadena Star-News.

As the beautiful days of this end-of-winter season come on, everybody is impressed, here in California, with the priceless conditions for journeying about the state with pleasure. With warm, balmy days and dry roadways, automobiles by the thousands may be found skimming along the picturesque highways, on Sundays and holidays, and after working hours during the week.

Pleasure riding in this state is one of the established joys of life here—an inseparable incident to living in California. It adds keenly to the joys of family life, for all members to go forth in the family machine, for an outing or a bracing drive. It is fortunate and gratifying, too, that the pleasures of autoing are not alone for the affluent. Persons of moderate means are able to have a car. Indeed, owning an automobile no longer properly is to be regarded as a luxury. It is more in the nature of a necessity, or a comfort, and facility which can be afforded by almost every family in the land.

Ford and the Presidency

Riverside Enterprise.

A group of Democrats are trying to run Henry Ford for the presidency because of his spectacular success in business and industry. And there was considerable relief when it was learned that the popular manufacturer of "tin lizzies" decided to throw his fortunes in with the Democrats, instead of the Republicans as there are those who believe he would be the stiffest opposition President Harding would have running for the Republican nomination. For the same reason he will probably be the most dangerous contender the Democrats could possibly pick out. There is probably no other multimillionaire in the United States who could run for so high an office and make a pretense of getting away with it. The kind of an automobile that Ford manufactures irrevocably connect him with the common people and there are more voters who come under that characterization than any other.

Wanted, a Real Man

The Lumber Merchant

WANTED—A man for hard work and rapid promotion; a man who can find things to be done without the help of a manager and three assistants.

A man who gets to work on time in the morning and does not imperil the lives of others in an effort to be first out of the office at night.

A man who is neat in appearance.

A man who does not sulk for an hour's overtime in emergencies. A man who listens carefully when he is spoken to and asks only enough questions to insure the accurate carrying out of instructions.

A man who moves quickly and makes as little noise as possible about it.

A man who looks you straight in the eye and tells the truth every time.

A man who does not pity himself for having to work.

Apply ANYWHERE—the world is searching for such men.

THE GREATER THING

However humble the place I may hold
Or lowly the trails I have trod,
There's a child who bases his faith on me;
There's a dog who thinks I am God.

Lord, keep me worthy—Lord, keep me clean
And fearless and unbeguiled,
Lest I lose caste in the sight of a dog
And the wide, clear eyes of a child.

Lest there shall come in the years to be
The blight of a withering grief,
And a little dog mourn for a fallen god
And a child for his lost belief.

Around the Town

By the Staff

THE AGE OF YOUTH

"What right has the college man to think that he can advise the farmer how to grow crops, increase production—and get away with it?"

The question has been asked and answered many times. In Orange county it is being answered daily that "he has won the right."

At that The Staff had wondered "just how he got away with it."

Visiting the office of the Orange county farm bureau each day in search of the elusive news item, he would take his notes of farm center meetings, pruning demonstrations, and reports of results attained in experimental plots, or at various laboratories, stationed throughout the county.

Frequently while in the office farmers would enter to discuss business with the farm advisor. The farmers looked twice the age of the farm advisor.

Being young, of course, The Staff eagerly has grasped at the phrase—somewhat of a platitude to our elders—"this is the age of youth."

Though he imitated Frederick O'Brien's South Sea islanders, who used their fingers as comptometers and were able to count "five," this youth would have a difficult time enumerating elders who take advice from him.

A trip around the county in the farm advisor's car, however, brought the conclusive evidence that a young man has won the right to advise many Orange county farmers as to the successful management of their lands.

"Now, Mr. Wahlberg," said one farmer, tall and gaunt with weathered skin and the clear eyes of the healthy man on the land, "Jim tells me to use the other seed, but I shall take your advice and use this seed." He opened a sack and displayed the chosen seed.

"Government inspected," commented the farm advisor.

"He's one of the truest friends I have in the county," said the farm advisor, as he and The Staff continued the drive along one of Orange county's proud highways, lined on either side with orange groves, yellow and green, with a white horse-shoe of snow-capped mountains rising in the background to a clear blue sky.

"When I came to Orange county a few years ago," continued the driver, as he twisted the wheel to avoid running down a chicken that had escaped from a nearby ranch, "my friend of today was, to say the least, antagonistic."

"Said I was a college boy, just out of school. What did I know about farming? He had been farming twenty years or more. Then he had a couple of years of bad crops, diseased soil and troubles of that nature."

"I won a hearing from him by telling him that I was bred on a farm, brought up on the soil."

"He listened and we went out into the fields together and fought the bad crops and the pests that had infected the soil."

"We dug into the ground, side by side, and consulted with each other as to strategy in combatting his soil enemies."

"His land is in good shape today, and we are the best of friends."

Such was the substance of several stories told during the afternoon's drive. Nor were they told in a spirit of boastfulness, but rather as a young farm advisor speaking to a young reporter, both glorying in this "age of youth."

"Because this is the age of youth men are wiser, who first located here on a waste of sand, dreamed of Orange county as it is today. Their children, still young, are living in the fulfillment of that dream. But that's another story.

A TALE OF ST. ANN'S

Dick, the colored porter at St. Ann's Inn, has lost his job because the laundryman's wife was taken ill.

It happened this way, according to reports accepted as authentic. The laundryman came rushing into the hotel the other morning, all out of breath. He dropped a bundle of clean linen by the elevator.

"Will take it up to the linen closet later," he called. "Have to take my wife to the hospital now. She is ill."

Time passed, as many have remarked in previous tales, and the bundle of laundry still remained conspicuously waiting to be taken upstairs.

Time passed some more and the chambermaids began to call for clean linen in order to complete their work of "making-up" the rooms. The laundryman had not returned.

Impelled by the impatience of the waiting maids, the day clerk rang for Dick.

"Dick, take that laundry upstairs," the day clerk ordered.

"The maids are waiting for it," Dick registered scorn, 'tis said, and instead of taking the laundry upstairs, gained audience with Manager Schweiger and spoke thusly:

"Taking laundry upstairs is not part of my work."

One word led to another and Dick finally remarked that "he guessed his services were not satisfactory," whereat, Schweiger agreed and himself took the laundry upstairs.

Later Dick returned to tell his employer of a few moments before that he had changed his mind, "perhaps his services could be made satisfactory."

But Schweiger said he hadn't changed his mind.

That's why the sign is out at St. Ann's Inn for a new porter, who will carry laundry upstairs. And that's how Dick, the colored porter, lost his job because the laundryman's wife was taken ill.

A Preference

By Berton Braley

I'd rather be an Easy Mark
Than be a Hard Balled Egg;
I'd rather be a Sucker
Than the guy who pulls his leg.

For the Easy Mark has peace of mind
And the Hard Balled Egg has none,
And the Easy Mark has the better part.

When all is said and done.

I'd rather be an Easy Mark
Than be a Hard Shelled Crab,
Who always has his fishy eye
On thing that he may grab;

His friends may stick the Easy Mark
With schemes for which he'll fall,
But Hard Balled Eggs and Hard Shelled Crabs
Possess no friends at all.

I've hung this motto on my wall
Upon a handy peg.
'T'd rather be an Easy Mark
Than be a Hard Balled Egg!

I'd rather thank that goodness reigns Amid the human throng,
Than copying the Easy Mark—
Yes, even if he's wrong!

Adventures of the Twins

The Cut-Out Lady

By Olive Roberts Barton

Off went Nancy and Nick toward tempt so much!" said the old woman Jack Straw's palace in Mix-Up Land.

The general with the bread-pill bullets and the rubber sword had told them he lived beyond the fiery mountain in a homey palace.

"There's the fiery mountain now," said Nancy, pointing. "That won't be hard to get over. All we have to do is to wish, as we have our Magic Shoes 'n' all."

"Oh, I don't know about that now," whined a voice, and turning around the Twins beheld a little old lady with a basket of eggs. "I don't know about that! You see that fire gets higher and higher when anyone tries to get over it, so that bye and bye it touches the sun. Airplanes 'n' things like that aren't a bit o' good."

"Oh, but we have Magic Shoes," said Nick. "We can even go to the moon."

"Say," said the old woman curiously. "If you tell me what you want to go for, I'll give you my basket of eggs."

"We want to get the ring off Jack Straw's left thumb and put Mix-Up Land to rights again," said Nick. "We want it to turn back into Apple-Pie Land and let Even Steven be king again."

"You are brave children to at-
